

WALL STREET BANKS APPROVE MONEY BILL

NEW YORK BANKING COMMUNITY SEEMS READY TO ACCEPT MEASURE AS PASSED BY SENATE.

BECOMES A LAW SOON

Will Be Submitted for President's Signature Early Next Week According to Plans of Democratic Leaders.

New York, Dec. 20.—Passage of the currency bill in Washington under the local banking community which was none too kindly disposed toward the measure in its incipient stages, more or less ready to accept the measure in its final stages, which the new law must inevitably bring, have been taken note of recently and it is not thought that any national bank of importance will carry out the threat so often heard a few weeks ago to resign its federal charter and operate under a state charter instead.

Approve New System. In fact the president of a large Wall street bank said today that all of the thirty-six national banks of this city could be depended upon to enter the new banking system as soon as the law took effect.

As the currency bill in its latest form has overcome many of the objections voiced by prominent financiers it seemed to be the opinion in financial quarters today that the privileges the nationally chartered institutions would retain together with the prestige considered to attach to national institutions, would outweigh with most of them any remaining objections they might have to the new law. Moreover were national banks to yield their charters they would have to return to the government the reserve moneys now held by them and retire their circulation against their holdings of government bonds.

Prepare Bill for Wilson. Washington, Dec. 20.—Final work of preparing the administration currency bill for President Wilson's signature was begun today when house and senate conferees met to compose differences between the "Owen substitute" as the measure was known as it passed the senate, and the Glass bill which was the administration measure in the house.

Senators Owen, Reed, O'Gorman, Pomeroy, Shaffroth and Hollis, democrats and Senators Nelson, Brewster, and Crawford, republicans, will represent the senate in the conference. Chairman Glass of the house banking committee, who was sponsor for the bill in the house, will head the conferees who will include Representatives Corbrey and Hayes. An effort will be made to argue upon a report which both houses of congress can accept so that the bill may be finally passed and taken to the White House to become a law with President Wilson's signature by Tuesday.

Delay House Conference. On its way to conference the bill struck a snag in the house, where a fight over the number of conferees and the question of separate vote on some of the senate amendments caused delay. Representative Glass asked unanimous consent to disagree to the senate amendments and send the bill to conference. Representative Hardwick of Georgia, and Madden of Illinois, contended the house should have as many conferees as the senate and said that they desired an opportunity to vote on some of the amendments.

Majority Leader Underwood secured unanimous consent to take up the bill. But Representative Murray of Oklahoma moved to concur in the senate amendments and the reading of the fifty pages of changes made by the senate was ordered, causing a long delay in getting the bill before the conference committee.

The principal points of difference which will have to be agreed upon or compromised are, the number of the regional reserve banks, a guarantee of deposit, the length of maturity of paper for rediscout at regional banks, the percentage of gold reserve to be required against the circulating notes and the time limit of mortgages on which national banks would be permitted to make farm loans.

Democratic Leader Underwood, in the house, sees no serious points of difference in the two bills; the guarantee of deposits which was inserted by the senate is practically the only change made in the amendments. At the changes made by the senate are understood to be agreeable to President Wilson.

People's Christmas Gift. As one administration official put it today, "the plan is to have the president sign this bill before Wednesday so that it may become a Christmas present for the American people."

When the bill becomes law, President Wilson will be confronted with taking the first step to put it into effect. That will be the appointment of a federal reserve board of seven members who will make all the arrangements for transition from the present currency system to the new one.

May Sign Bill Monday. President Wilson probably will leave here Tuesday for Pass Christian, Miss., for his three weeks' vacation. He expects to sign the currency bill Monday night.

Senator Vardaman of Mississippi, an early White House caller today, said the people of his state would not number the president's efforts to get a complete rest.

The president was in good health, today, but stayed in his study working on many things that he hopes to clear up before going on his vacation. He expects to announce the appointment of three interstate commerce commissioners soon.

In the House. After a hot debate in the house today administration leaders had their way and sent the currency bill to a conference committee. Attempts to concur at once in the senate amendments were defeated 194 to 59.

With the house in disorder Republican Leader Mann moved to instruct the house conferees to disagree to the senate amendment and agree to the "Hitchcock" bill rejected by the senate.

Parliamentary Wrangle. A parliamentary wrangle ensued and another roll call was ordered to shut off debate.

Later today it was officially announced at the executive offices that the president would go to Pass Christian, Miss., for his vacation and that he would try to leave here early on Tuesday.

Writes Explanation. Mr. Wilson was at work most of the morning with Secretary Tamm clearing up details. The president wrote upon his own typewriter a statement about the currency bill which it was expected would be made public later.

In Middle West. A group of middle western democrats made a futile fight to accept the senate provisions for guarantee of deposits, re-discount of six months on agricultural paper and five years farm mortgage loans by national banks.

The fight on the house developed a movement to insure retaining the senate amendment for guarantee of bank deposits.

Representative Glass declared the enactment of the measure as it came from the senate would be a "calamity."

Glass Insistent. "I want the bill sent to conference," he said, "because I am convinced that as the bill has been completed by the senate it would not be a workable law." He pointed out several provisions in the senate amendment which he said conflicted.

Mr. Glass attacked the bank reserve requirements as amended by the senate.

"Under this provision," he said, "the total reserves of the banks in the system, both in cash and in credit with the reserve banks would be less than they are at present holding in cash. Within a few months under these provisions we would have a saturation of expansion of wild inflation."

Mere Pretense. He declared the senate guarantee provision was a "mere pretense."

Majority Leader Underwood closed the debate declaring that the measure should be sent to conference and the house lined up for a vote.

STEPHENSON DENIES CLAIM OF EX-CLERK

United States Senator From Wisconsin Answers Clerk's Charges in District Court.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Dec. 20.—Senator Stephenson entered a general denial in the district court here today to the $10,000 claim of Rodney Sackett, former executive clerk of the senate who alleged the senator owed him that amount for services in his last election and for compromising claims arising out of the primary. Senator Stephenson says he never employed Sackett, that the services were voluntary and that Sackett was at the time receiving a salary from the United States as a senate clerk.

OFFICIAL INTRODUCER IS BOUNCED FOR STEPPING ON CHIEF EXECUTIVE'S TOES

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, Dec. 20.—A story is being told here today that one of the reasons why M. Mollard, introducer of ambassadors at the president's palace, was replaced by M. Martin was because he stepped on the chief executive's foot. According to the story, on the day Martin succeeded Mollard as master of ceremonies some one remarked to President Poincaré, "Pardieu, no one would notice M. Mollard was not here."

"I would," the president is quoted as answering, "for no one has stepped on my toes." It appears M. Mollard in making introductions, had a habit of stepping back a pace. President Poincaré had learned the trick and stayed far enough away in the rear to escape M. Mollard's weight over 200 pounds.

BOTH LOCAL ROADS RUN SPECIAL STUDENT TRAINS

To accommodate the large number of students that desire to return to their homes for the Christmas vacation by way of Chicago, both the Northwestern and St. Paul railroads scheduled special trains from Madison to Chicago, via Janesville.

The Northwestern operated two specials yesterday afternoon, both going through in the afternoon, one at two and the other at four o'clock. At four-thirty a train consisting of fifteen passenger coaches was taken to Madison for a special run this afternoon, arriving in Chicago at five. Both roads are operating specials for students on all their divisions and the Northwestern trains yesterday afternoon were taxed for seating room.

Spanish Envoy Protests.

Washington, Dec. 20.—Senator Riano, the Spanish ambassador, according to instructions from Madrid, formally denied to the state department today that Spanish subjects in Mexico aided the Huerta cause, as contended by General Villa, who has demanded action in confiscating Spanish property by charging that the Spanish residents in Chihuahua had violated the neutrality laws.

ANGRY COUNT KILLS WIFE AND NEPHEW

Polish Nobleman Slays Wife and Nephew Without Word of Explanation.—Wounds Countess's Companion.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Graetz, Germany, Dec. 20.—Count Methias Melzynski, a millionaire Polish nobleman, and member of the German imperial parliament, shot and killed his wife and his nephew early today.

The count, who is residing near here at one of his country castles, sounded the alarm that night which he thought were caused by thieves. He seized a rifle and made a search during which he found his wife and nephew together in her room.

Without a word of warning or explanation the count shot both dead. A woman companion of the countess was the only witness of the affair. She was also seriously wounded by one of the bullets.

The count promptly notified the public prosecutor of the tragedy.

The count is 44 years old. He was married in 1896 to Countess Felicia von Potok-Potocka, who was born in 1876. For some years the couple were separated, but reunited a short time ago.

Count Melzynski has been a member of the imperial parliament since 1902. He was one of the Polish aristocrats who joined the emperor during the latter's visit here on August 27th, to dedicate the new city hall and the chapel in Posen Castle.

The function was boycotted by the Polish populace as a protest against the Prussian policy of Germanization in the Polish provinces. The count's carriage was stoned and his inmates drenched with water while they were on the way to the castle.

Do You Believe In Santa Claus

If not, there is something wrong in your mental equipment and you ought not to be permitted to roam at large at Christmas time.

The hundreds of letters addressed to Santa Nick, recently published in these columns tell the story of childhood faith.

It is a wonderful story so closely interwoven with the Star and the Manger that it is filled with sacred significance, and to many of us with hallowed memories.

A story which perpetuates itself through every succeeding generation, and makes Santa Claus a glad reality, because it inspires human hearts and hands to do his work.

HUNGER DROVE BOY TO MURDER HERMIT

Colorado Citizens Petition Pardon Board to Spare Life of Youth Who Murdered Hermit for Food.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Denver, Dec. 20.—While people throughout the United States are petitioning the pardon board of the state of Connecticut to give Pessie Wakefield a chance, George King, colored No. 363, who was given a chance largely through the efforts of Mrs. Helena Grenfell and Mrs. Anna B. Williams, of the state charities and correction board, is making good in Canon City penitentiary.

Reared without schooling, beaten by a stepfather who hated him and finally driven from his home on a ranch in Elbert county, Colorado, when twelve years old, he was told to make his own living.

He lost his right arm at the shoulder when he was old while attempting to do a man's work in a cement plant. George King never had a chance for moral development. He was sentenced to prison on the gallows for the murder of a hermit, known to have money in his hut. His accomplice was John Field, a boy morally irresponsible, said the court.

Mrs. Grenfell, personally investigated the history of George King. Since hunger was the primary motive for the crime, she determined to raise money to take his case to the supreme court. It is a second trial.

Before the first trial the court for hanging King he overheard the conversation of the prison chaplain with another young fellow about going to school in the prison. "I never had much schooling," he broke in, "I wonder I could learn to read and write before I die."

He was tried a second time and sentenced to life imprisonment. King is having the first of his life as he has had in his life of 21 years. To show his mettle, and to show King is a model prisoner.

George King is a model prisoner. He is eagerly pursuing his studies in the prison school and anticipates to be a teacher. All he needs is human kindness to develop his moral responsibility.

TWO SALOON OWNERS ESCAPE PROSECUTION

Paroled Prisoner Breaks Pledge, Involving Saloon Men in Commitment Law, Wakes Up In Watertown.

That two saloon owners, one in this city and the other at South Janesville, who were paroled under the commitment law for selling liquor to a paroled prisoner, was only prevented by both proving that they did not know the man who purchased liquor was under sentence.

Charles Kingsley, who was sentenced in the municipal court by Judge Maxfield to a ninety day flat sentence under the new law on October 20th, broke his parole on Tuesday of this week. He obtained liquor at the two saloons and then went back to Afton, where he was working during his term. Kingsley was in such an intoxicated condition that he was unable to reach the farm where he was employed and spent the night in a car on a siding at the station. On Wednesday morning when he awoke he found he was in Watertown, the having been coupled on the night freight and he did not awaken from his drunken slumber. Knowing that Sheriff Whipple would search for him, Kingsley gave himself up at the county jail Wednesday night.

The authorities made an investigation and found where the paroled man had obtained his liquor, but satisfactory explanations were made. If guilty, the saloon keepers would have had to wait six months for the term at the county jail. Kingsley will lose his time off on his sentence.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Concord N. H., Dec. 20.—The commission appointed by Judge Edgar A. Smith of the United States district court to determine whether Harry K. Thaw's mental condition would make his release under bail a menace to public safety, will, it was announced today, proceed with the examination of Thaw as rapidly as consistent with a thorough performance of the duty imposed by the court. The members of the commission met yesterday to outline the course of procedure.

GERMAN LABOR UNION AT OUTS WITH BANKS

Withdraws Accounts Amounting to Five Million Dollars Because Banks Refused to Reinstate Clerks.

Berlin, Dec. 20.—The labor unions of Germany decided today to withdraw deposits amounting to five million dollars from a leading bank in Berlin which recently discharged one of its employees because he had been engaged in agitating for the formation of a bank clerks' union. The bank declined to reinstate the man at the request of the labor unions and also refused to give guarantee that its employees should have the right of association.

The desired guarantees were obtained by the labor unions from several other banks.

FAMOUS SCIENTIST AT DEATH'S DOOR

Prof. Stockwell First to Prove Truth of Cook's Trip to North Pole, Racing With Death.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Cleveland, O., Dec. 20.—Prof. John R. Stockwell of Case School of Applied Science, the first man to prove by scientific calculations that Dr. Frederick Cook had failed to reach the North Pole and whose scientific work, written for the Smithsonian Institution, are world famous, at the age of eighty-two is racing with death.

For six years this aged student, whose rise from a country boy with practically no education to a pinnacle in the world of mathematics and astronomy, reads like fiction, has worked unceasingly on his last great problem—a new theory of the tides. And now he is afraid the grim reaper may win. Professor Stockwell claims that in solving this problem he will show the real cause for the wonderfully regulated movement of the vast waters.

"My calculations have proved to me that the present system of computing the tides from the action of the moon is wrong," said Professor Stockwell, "but I must prove it to the world. It's a slow task though. But I can't fail in my last effort for I've always believed no man should leave behind an uncompleted work. I only want to finish my work, to solve my last problem and round out my life—then I'll die happy."

THREE ARE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Mrs. Bert Grodovant Badly Injured In Unavoidable Collision of Goodman Auto Into R-

Mrs. Bert Grodovant, residing at 637 Williams street, was badly injured, Miss Ella Wheelock and Jerald Quisley of Edgerton, received minor bruises, when an automobile driven by Peter Grodovant, unavoidably collided with their buggy in front of the Bug's garage on Academy street, last evening shortly before nine o'clock. When the auto struck the buggy, the wheels of the auto locked in the car track and the three occupants were thrown heavily to the brick pavement. Mrs. Grodovant has just recovered from a broken leg and it is feared the child will be injured. Grodovant was badly wrenched and she is suffering painful bruises. Goodman took the entire party to the Grodovant residence where the automobile which was damaged in the collision. Three wheels of the buggy were broken and the rear part smashed. Had Mr. Goodman sounded his horn the accident might have been averted.

BREAK PLATE GLASS IN JEWELRY THEFT

D. D. Crandal of Milton Junction Suffers Loss Last Night Result of Daring Burglary.

Breaking a large plate glass window with a stone in order to gain entrance to the residence of D. D. Crandal at Milton Junction, during thieves escaped last night or early this morning with a quantity of jewelry, small articles and fountain pens.

Police at neighboring cities were notified this morning of the loss and an investigation was begun at once. Sheriff Whipple and Chief of Police Hanson were informed of the facts of the case and Patrolmen Peter Chamption and Harry Smith were at work on the case for some time today on the theory that the thieves had escaped on a railroad "speeder" toward Janesville.

The speeder which was missing at the Milton Junction section house this morning was found later in the day at the side of the railroad track at Grundy's crossing, indicating that the thieves had abandoned their conveyance to take up their flight on foot across country.

Stock Goes Up

New York, Dec. 20.—The announcement from Washington that the American Telephone and Telegraph Company had reached an agreement with the department of justice whereby it would relinquish control of the Western Union and avoid a suit under the anti-trust law, caused excited advance in the stock of the telephone company. The opening of the stock market today.

The first transaction in the stocks was a block of 2,000 shares, one of the largest blocks of that stock which had been held by the company for years. Prices ranged from 120 1/4 to 124, a maximum gain of 3 1/2 points. Subsequently the advance was run up to seven points. The price of 124 1/2 represented a gain of 14 1/2 points since Monday.

The price later reacted three points. Western Union stock, while less active, was bid up two points.

GAIN VICTORY OVER TELEPHONE MONOPOLY

ADMINISTRATION ANTI-TRUST OFFICIALS GAIN BIGGEST VICTORY.

Ownership Is Heard

Phone Company Agrees to Separate From Telegraph Company or to Extend Control Into Local Fields.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, Dec. 20.—The greatest anti-trust victory of President Wilson's administration thus far—the voluntary dissolution of the so-called telephone trust—commanded the attention of all administration officials today through the fact that all the features against which the government was preparing an anti-trust suit will be eliminated with the consent and co-operation of "big business" itself without years of court battling, the primary topic of discussion in administration circles was what effect will the dissolution have on the movement for government ownership? It has been generally expected in congress that such a plan would soon be urged as an administration measure.

With the voluntary dissolution of the so-called trust, actually under way, however, Attorney General McReynolds and the interstate commerce commission today prepared to scan the details of the separation of the American Telephone and Telegraph company from the Western Union and the work of disentangling telephone affairs through to the country which threatened federal action.

Not only has the American Telephone and Telegraph Company agreed to give up its control of the Western Union, but it has agreed not to extend its monopoly of local companies in the telephone field.

The most important point to the American people, officials declare, is the telephone company's agreement to extend the use of its toll lines to all local companies. That concession which was admittedly more than Attorney General McReynolds expected to secure in a legal fight, opens long wanted facilities which have long been denied.

As the work of separating the two big companies goes on points on which they may be in doubt will be submitted to Attorney General McReynolds and the interests commerce commission for decision.

Administration supporters, after informal conferences in the telephone dissolution on going over so much of the plan, as has been published, were of the opinion that the new development would at least retard the movement to present the government ownership question to congress. Some believe the company's voluntary readjustment to meet the new situation, department of justice has created an entirely new situation which the government ownership supporters would have to consider before going further.

Representative Lewis of Maryland, author of the parcels post law and active in the movement for government ownership of telegraph and telephone lines, introduced a resolution, however, to direct the house postoffice committee to go ahead and report a bill for government ownership of telephone lines to be operated by the postoffice department.

In a statement accompanying his resolution Mr. Lewis contended that the action of the Bell Telephone Company in providing a solution under the anti-trust law did not effect the legislative situation at all.

"The action of the Bell company will not reduce a single telephone or telegraph line in the United States and so the public necessities for legislative action to postalize these methods of communication as they have been in nearly all other countries, are not affected in the least," said he.

The Lewis resolution embodies a plan by which the telephone lines would be appraised by the interstate commerce commission and the owners might obtain the value of the United States circuit court on the awards. Pending litigation, interest at the rate of four per cent a year would be paid to the owners.

The government would issue three per cent bonds from time to time as the acquisition of properties demanded.

OBITUARY

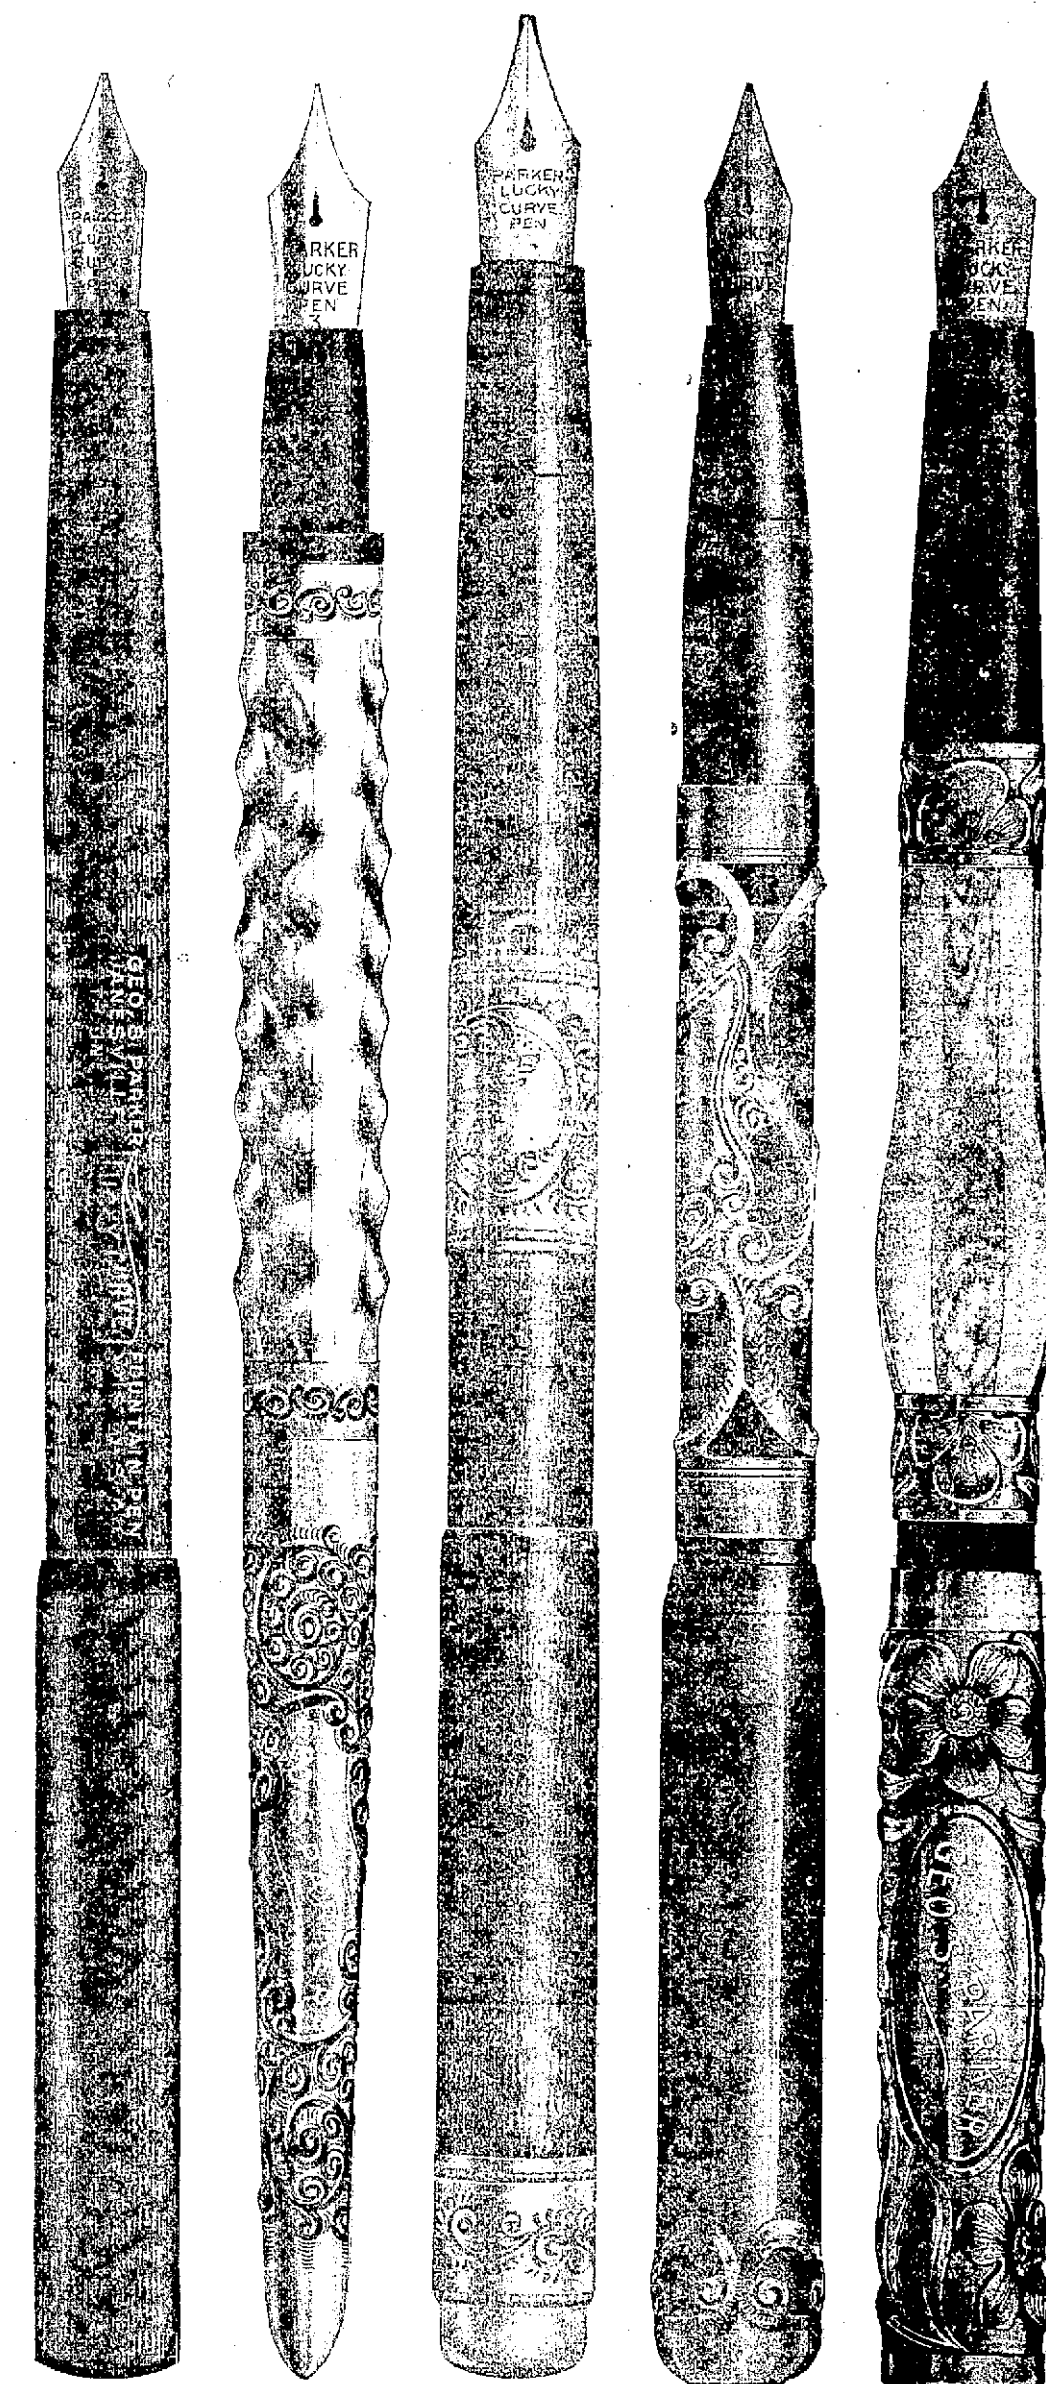

Mrs. Clara A. Hunt.
Funeral services for Mrs. Clara A. Hunt, who died Wednesday morning, were held at the home on Madison street at one-thirty o'clock, and from the Carell Memorial church at two o'clock. Rev. T. D. Williams offered prayer at the home and the Rev. James Tippet of Appleton, former pastor at the Janesville church, paid tribute to the worthy life of Mrs. Hunt, and Dr. Perry Miller, district superintendent of the Methodist church, paid his respects at the church. Music was given by the church quartet. Those who served as pall bearers were as follows: S. C. Burnham, J. L. Hay, T. E. Bennison, J. E. Lane, Dr. P. T. Richards and George Jacobs. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

G. W. Wilson.
Funeral services for the late G. W. Wilson will be held Monday afternoon at 2:30 from the home of the Misses Wilson, 51 South Academy street, Rev. Henry Willman officiating.

Group and Cough Remedy.
Croup is a terrible disease, it attacks children so suddenly they are very apt to choke unless given the proper remedy at once. There is nothing better in the world than Dr. King's New Discovery. Lewis Chamberlain, of Manchester, Ohio, writes about his children. "Sometimes in severe attacks we were afraid they would die, but since we proved that a certain remedy Dr. King's New Discovery is, we have no fear. We rely on it for croup, coughs and colds." Jack Adams, catcher, who played the biggest part of the season with New Orleans last year, comes forth to claim the biggest back luck ever of any player in any league, big or small. Adams started the season with Toledo in the A. A. and was later sent to New Orleans. After lamming the following week, he was sent back to Toledo. Here is the list of his most important misfortunes: In the first game of the season with Toledo a player slid into him at the plate and broke his left ankle. Eight weeks in the hospital. While his ankle was still in a cast he was called in to play first base for another injured player and managed to strain his right knee so that it later developed water on the knee. Shortly after he was sold to New Orleans and in the first game he played with them he was hit in the side by a fast pitched ball and as a result nursed three broken ribs for several weeks. The first game he caught after being up and about he managed to break his thumb. In the next game he broke the little finger of the other hand. Two weeks after he broke the middle finger of his right hand. However, he continued to play and with these injuries in only a partial state of recovery. With it all Adams played a mighty good game and his chances for joining the American league via Cleveland are said to be at Charles Somers, owner of the Naps and also owner of the Toledo Mud Hens and the New Orleans outfit, is said to be mightily well taken with Adams' performances.

Mr. John K. Tener has taken up his new duties as National league chief under the most discouraging circumstances. To be sure, he once upon a problem demanding the fact

COLLEGES TRAINING FOR WINTER SPORTS, BASKETBALL POPULAR

College Sport Letter Shows Activities of Big Varsityes for Winter and Spring Sports—Other College News.

[By Associated Press.] New York, Dec. 20.—Candidates for places upon the various winter and spring sport teams of the colleges and universities in all parts of the country will resume training immediately after the Christmas holidays. Places are open for basketball, swimming, baseball, lacrosse, track and crew combinations, and competition will continue from early in January to late in June. Some idea of this athletic activity in the leading universities of the east and west can be gained from the schedule laid out at Harvard.

The hockey squad is training at the Boston rink and will soon leave for practice games at the Syracuse arena, where several informal inter-varsity matches will be played. The track team candidates are training twice a week on the board track at Soldiers Field and competitions will be held semi-monthly with silver cups as prizes for the leading point winners. Entries will also be made in a number of the big indoor meets at Boston and New York. Machine and tank practice for the oarsmen will open immediately after the mid-year examinations. Gymnasium and cage practice for the baseball players will be started early in January, while the swimmers will plunge in the pool about the same time. The wrestlers, fencers and gymnasts are already on edge for the opening of their season of competitions.

Notre Dame's Success. For Spartan simplicity the valedictory of the 1913 Notre Dame football eleven is a welcome relief from the fulsome praise accorded teams which fell short of the record established by the Indiana combination. The team which scored 25 points to its opponents 41, and defeated West Point, Penn State and Texas University during the season was accorded the following paragraph in the University publication after its final victory at Austin, Texas:

"The 1913 varsity eleven passed in to history Thanksgiving day on Clarke Field, Austin. Its history has been the most glorious of all Notre Dame eleven. We cannot say how proud we feel, but to the men of '13 we say: 'You have done your work well.'"

Protest Is Allowed. As the result of a recent ruling by the National Rifle Association the Princeton University rifle team has been awarded the eastern non-military rifle shooting championship for the season of 1912-13. The readjustment of awards was made when the score of the Harvard team was made against the Massachusetts Agricultural College was protested by the latter on the ground that the Harvard team used long rifle cartridges instead of short, as called for under the conditions of the match. The claim having been acknowledged, the executive committee of the National Rifle Association America turned out the Harvard score and gave the cham-and judgement that the Cincinnati affair has asked of him is far from pleasing. If Mr. Tener is able to overcome the wrangle with grace and with satisfaction to one and all, still keeping intact his well-known dignity, he will have shown himself to be an ideal man for the position to which he has been elected. Perhaps after all it is well that this problem has confronted him at the time it did, as it will speedily acquaint him with the tasks connected with his job. And he will be able to show us his capabilities in this direction.

There will be at least one change in baseball rules when the American and National rules combine next month and it was the clever wit of Steve O'Neil, the Nap catcher, that brought the need of this change to the attention of those in charge. The rule that a pitcher must be on base cannot advance when a catcher interferes with the batter. Cleveland was playing the St. Louis Browns, with the Browns at bat and Jimmie Austin on third. The score was tied and one run would have saved up the game. The Nap twirler was using a very slow wind-up and Austin had an excellent chance to get a nice lead off third. O'Neil noticed this and also knew that he would not be able to get Austin at all. So O'Neil tipped that bat of the man at the bat in such a way that all could see. The ball went to the grandstand and the batter went down to first, but Austin was held at third. The game in this way was practically saved for the Naps. The rule will be changed so that all runners on bases advance a bag when the batter is interfered with by the catcher. The rules committee will also consider the proposed ball and balk ball rules of the two leagues, the rules of these points being different in the National and American. In the National league if the pitcher drops the ball when winding up it is called a ball and all on bases advance a bag. In the American league this is not the case and the baserunners advance at their own risk.

Championship of the eastern league to the Massachusetts Agricultural College, with Princeton in second place. The special trophy given to the college not only a military department, which had been won by Harvard, went to Princeton by this ruling.

Run Largest Score. The members of the Washington and Jefferson College football team, which ran the largest total score of the season, is to be significantly honored. Through college and town subscriptions gold football charms will be purchased and awarded all the players who participated in the games of 1913. A special souvenir will also be presented to halfback Spiegall who personally scored 127 of the total 345 points.

Water Baseball. The University of Chicago swimmers under Coach White have been trying out the new aquatic game known as water basketball in order to determine whether the game will prove a practical substitute for water polo. Polo was officially abolished by the conference ruling two years ago, and since that time efforts have been made to secure a water contest which will prove an equal attraction. Water polo was generally regarded as the roughest interscholastic sport and has been viewed with much disapproval for years.

The action of Wesleyan in declining to race Yale in football in 1914 has won approval from a number of the followers of the game at the smaller eastern universities. The idea of acting as trial horses for the big college elevens grows less attractive to lesser schools each year. Not once in a blue moon does victory come to the little team and injuries and broken combinations frequently result in defeat when the minor college team meets its natural rival in the biggest game of the schedule.

May Bar Americans. English college and sporting papers are filled with correspondence pro and con relative to the right of the Oxford University Athletic Club to bar or limit the athletic activity of Rhodes scholars. As is the case in this country opinion appears to be about evenly divided upon the subject and there is no reason for believing that the recent rulings will be altered or rescinded.

Athletes at Yale. According to data compiled at Yale 1,200 upper classmen participated in athletic activity during the autumn. Tennis leads with 145, wrestling second with 80; golf had 68 devotees, crew 64, and football 55. It was estimated that 550 students used the gymnasium and swimming pool. About the same proportion were observed in the freshman class, where 478 students were checked as training for eleven teams or sports.

ORGANIZE CLASSES IN GYMNASIUM WORK

Perfect Plans for Opening Association Building for Winter's Indoor Activity.

Next week will mark the opening of the gymnasium classes at the completely remodeled association building, the work on which is all but finished. The new gym has been equipped with the most modern apparatus and will furnish the best court for basketball, volleyball and other indoor games of any gymnasium in southern Wisconsin.

The locker rooms are ready and the keys will be given out on Monday to the members. Physical Director F. Yordy has completed the organization of the classes, but no definite date has been set for the first class night. The bowling alleys will not be opened for some time as the balls were not satisfactory and have been sent back to the factory. The billiard room has been completed and will be in use as soon as the building is opened to the public.

It is the plans of Director Yordy to have a business men's class for vocational work in the gymnasium, including calisthenic drills and apparatus work. Separate nights will be set aside for volley ball, which promises to become a popular game among the members of this class. The seniors will have two nights a week for gym work and a third night for basketball. It is planned to open a class for working boys, two nights of gym work and one night of basketball. The high school boys are to have a separate class two nights a week. Two junior classes will be organized, meeting twice a week in the afternoon. After the schedule is working order it is planned to establish a leaders' class, the best gymnasium men being picked to lead in the group work. Senior leaders will have charge of the working boys' class.

The hours for the playing of handball will be from ten o'clock in the morning until nine-thirty at night and by special appointment.

JANESVILLE BOWLERS DEFEAT BELLOIT FIVE

Local Ten Pin Men Defeat Visitors in First Two Games Winning by Fifty-Seven Pins.

Beloit was handed something of a jolt when their bowlers failed to win the third game from Janesville in their session at Miller's alleys last evening. The Line City men made a desperate effort to square their score in the last game, but the locals' steady bowling in the early frames banked their hopes.

Winning in the first game, Janesville totaled a lead of 48 pins which they increased to 102 in the next contest. Beloit beat out the local five by 56 pins in the final game but had started too late to win the honors. Messner, of Beloit, was high man, rolling over a 215 score in the last frame. Lee, the new man for the Janesville bowlers, performed in great style, waiting down 181 in his final effort. Abraham was a victim of hard luck at split shots and at one time went half way down the alley to knock over the seven ten pins in a split to give him a two hundred score. Being caught at a foul was all that prevented "Abe" from scoring high man.

In the afternoon the Pure Milk Company went down to defeat before Dickerson's Stars by 149 pins. With all their season's victories to their credit, the milkmen fell down by the brilliant and shining work of the stars, led by Captain Dickerson.

Don't forget to up and fling it
At a soul that's feelin' blue,
For the munit that ye sling it
It's a boomerang to you.
—Capt. Jack Crawford.

For eight long days, in the early part of December, not a ray of sunshine lighted up the gloom, and more or less skepticism prevailed, as to whether the sun would ever shine again.

The gray days of this sunless period had a depressing influence, because the warm weather which accompanied the fogs and mist was unseasonable, and stocks of goods bought for the early winter trade, refused to move.

This brought disappointment and loss to the men who owned them. It is always difficult to be cheerful under such circumstances, and the homes affected always share in this kind of misfortunes.

This comparatively small class was not the only class to suffer, for the weather "got on our nerves," and the most of us went around with a chip on our shoulders, ready for discussion on short notice, and fully convinced that we were martyrs to some conspiracy beyond our control.

But one night a full-fledged moon, several days old and forgotten, broke through the darkness and lighted up the firmament, while the same old-time stars dotted the canopy.

The next morning the sun rolled up over the horizon, flooding the landscape with light, and before its genial rays a nightmare of fog and gloom disappeared like the dew on a summer morning, while the crisp, frosty air cleared the atmosphere, and drove the cobwebs from our brain, and restored both heart and mind to normal condition.

These weather experiences are common to humanity, and they are as varied as they are common. While Wisconsin is enjoying California weather in December, Colorado is buried in snow, and Texas deluged with a destructive rainfall.

It is sometimes helpful to remember that the forces of nature, while beyond our control, are in competent hands, and that the same God who pronounced His work good, back in the days of creation, is still competent to direct.

The weather is so universally good in all parts of the country, that it attracts but little attention and not very much appreciation. We take it for granted, like many other common blessings, and it takes a cyclone or a hail storm to wake us up.

Some people possess the happy faculty of living in an atmosphere of sunshine all the time, and because of this fact they are envied by the rest of us—less fortunate—who argue that a happy disposition is due either to inheritance, or a mental weakness which fails to recognize responsibility. We have no ambition to be classed with the latter, and many of us are certain that the birthmark of perpetual happiness is not a part of our equipment.

It is possible to be sound in mind, and bankrupt in inheritance, and still possess a disposition which radiates sunshine and happiness, for the mind and heart are capable of wonderful development along the lines of cheerfulness and optimism.

Some of the great heroes are victims of physical infirmities which render them almost helpless. They suffer, not only without complaint, but with no apparent thought of their own condition. Rejoiced, as by fire in the furnace of affliction, we covet their graces and marvel at their patient endurance. They are God's object lessons scattered along the roadway for a purpose.

There is one season of the year when every heart should be filled with gladness, whether the sun shines or not, and that is the glad Christmas time, just now in its glory.

It's worth something to live in a land where prosperity has so long prevailed, that dire poverty is practically unknown. Of course there are always unfortunate homes, which suffer want perhaps through no fault of their own, but the average American home, in this year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and thirteen, approaches Christmas day, free from want and with a little surplus with which to fill the children's stockings in the chimney corner.

Then there is a little army of good fellows, scattered over the land, engaged in the work of the Master by playing Santa Claus for homes which might otherwise be neglected. There is something about Christmas which breaks down all barriers and all creeds, and invites the comradeship of a common brotherhood.

The babe and the manger at Bethlehem excited but little attention, outside of the race which recognized in the child the fulfillment of prophecy, and their faith was shaken long before His mission was fulfilled, because He did not establish an earthly kingdom.

But today, all over Christendom, the name of Jesus is familiar to every child, and cherished in every home, and the glad anthems, dedicated to the story of His lowly birth, are chanted in the churches of every creed.

The significance of this universal homage, means more than a tribute to a sacred memory. It means personal recognition of a Messiah who lives today in the hearts of men, and whose presence is more real than was the presence of the babe in the manger to the men who saw only in the child the coming ruler of an oppressed people.

The life beyond is shrouded in mystery, for no eye has yet penetrated the veil, but faith comes to the rescue, and hope sustains, and all because the voice of the Master comes ringing down the centuries, echoing with promises of immortal life.

The few brief years of His earthly pilgrimage were spent in cramped environments. The manger and the cross were spanned by half a lifetime, but when the life went out its impress was so thoroughly stamped on the heart of humanity, that willing hands were ready to represent Him as a lowly servant who "went about doing good."

As we approach this Christmas time, two thousand years this side the birth day of the Child, the world is filled with loving hearts, striving to do His will, and the disposition to "pass along" the blessings, was never more pronounced than today. This is the Christmas spirit which brings mutual joy and happiness.

'Twas But a Dream.
Seated in an old arm chair,
At the close of day,
Close beside the great log fire
Feeble, old and gray,
Silent and alone he watched
The ruddy embers glow,
Just as he'd done o'er and o'er,
Those long, long years ago.

No voice to break the silence,
No sound to still the strain,
Save the patter of the snow flakes,
Against the window pane.
The soft glow of the fire-light
Cast strange shadows over all
Bringing back to him sweet memories,
Of faces on the wall.

He heard the ringing laughter
Of a child so full of glee,
And how the bright eyes sparkled
As she sat upon his knee.
He held the chubby hands in his,
And smoothed the silken hair,
He kissed the rosy dimpled cheek,
Of the babe so young and fair.

The stockings, he saw hanging
About the old fireplace,
And filled them full of playthings,
With a smile upon his face.
How softly then he piped
To the little trundle-bed,
Where she was sweetly sleeping,
And stroked the curly head.

The children, Christmas morning,
With eager faces sought
The stockings filled with good things
That "Santa Clause" had brought.
He saw their bright young faces,
How real it all did seem,
But when he was awakened
Alas, 'Twas but a dream.
—Chas. H. Patterson.

It is not generally known that eucalyptus oil will remove grease, including machine oil, from any fabric without injuring it in any way. Dress-makers should welcome this tip, as oil is often split on a costume in the making, due to bad working machines.

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be there stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

Might Explain It.

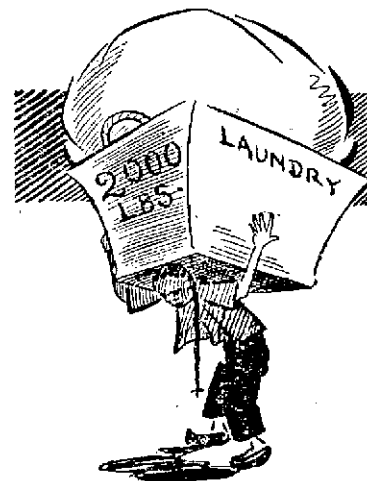

After spending the summer in a mountain hamlet in Tennessee, the visitor hired a native to help pack up. As they were engaged in boxing a shelf of books the mountaineer remarked: "Somehow Ah neva keered much for books; but," he resumed after a thoughtful pause, "Ah can't read, an' mebbe that had sumpin' to do with it."

Florida's Tiny Mountain.

Mount Pleasant, Florida, is probably the smallest mountain, as well as the least in elevation in this country. It is only 301 feet above sea level, and is the highest determining point in the state.

Extinguishing Fire.

If a rug is thrown over a burning object it must be wrapped closely in order to exclude air. The burning goes on just the same as long as air is present. Water for anything but an oil fire, salt and sand are all good extinguishers. A wet towel thrown over an alcohol blaze—or any other—will extinguish it sufficiently so that it may be smothered easily. Pull down a blazing curtain and extinguish it on the floor. But do it at once! If you must call for help do it while you are working.

ENTHUSIASM SHOWN AT DRAMATIC CLUB

Last Act of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" Given at Weekly Meeting of Growing Club.

With every meeting greater success is marking the progress of the Janesville Dramatic Club, and the members express confidence that the organization will be able to carry through their anticipations for a large society to study the higher class of plays and to present a performance on the Janesville stage. New members are seeking to enroll and the interest is contagious among lovers of good drama throughout the city.

At the night's meeting at the city hall the last act of "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" was presented, and the society voted to continue their study of this play because of its high merit, its free discussion of the drama and its hope and hope was expressed that at some future date the club may stage the play. Miss Mary Roherty gave an excellent reading of "Old Time Theatres and Methods of Preparing and Presenting Plays." For the time being the club has decided to turn its attention to the study of the higher dramas with no attempt to present a play to the Janesville public. In this way interest will not be centered upon a few members selected for the cast and a general discussion among all the members is aimed to create a holding interest.

THOMAS DRUMMOND PASSED AWAY FRIDAY

Old Janesville Resident Since 1856, Is Called by Death at Home Early Friday Morning.

Thomas H. Drummond passed away Friday morning at three o'clock at his late home, 444 Cornelia street, after a lingering illness, his affliction being bronchial pneumonia. He was 82 years and ten months old.

Mr. Drummond was born in Martintown, Gleggery County, Ontario, Canada, February 12th, 1831. He spent his early boyhood days in that country, coming to Janesville in 1856, where he has since resided.

He was a member of the Janesville Lodge No. 90, I. O. O. F., having joined the order in 1877, and was the oldest member of No. 90 when he died.

He leaves to mourn his loss a loving wife, one daughter, Mrs. C. E. Deay of Oak Park, Illinois, and one son, George H. Drummond, of this city, and one sister, Mrs. John Mac Lennan of Cornwall, Ontario, Canada.

Funeral services will be held at the family residence on Cornelia street, Friday afternoon at two o'clock, the Rev. David Beaton of the Congregational church officiating. The Janesville Lodge No. 90 I. O. O. F. will have charge of the services at the grave. Interment will be at the Oak Hill cemetery.

Summons and complaints in two damage suits brought by two Janesville brakemen against the St. Paul and Northern Pacific company, filed today in the clerk of the circuit court's office.

L. Fraunfelder seeks $35,000 from St. Paul Company and J. J. McCarthy $25,000 from Northwestern.

Summons and complaints in two damage suits brought by two Janesville brakemen against the St. Paul and Northern Pacific company, filed today in the clerk of the circuit court's office.

L. Fraunfelder seeks to recover $35,000 from the St. Paul road for injuries which he received on Oct. 8 last, the result of a defective ladder on a freight car which he was operating. As a result of the defective equipment Fraunfelder sustained a severe injury crushing his arms and legs, back and spine, and in addition suffered internal injuries of a serious nature. The complaint further sets forth that both plaintiff and defendant were engaged in interstate commerce at the time of the alleged accident.

John McCarthy, a brakeman in the employ of the Northwestern road, claims that he suffered $25,000 damages for personal injuries which he suffered at Sharon, Wisconsin, on June 28 last, while in the employ of the railroad company. McCarthy claimed to have suffered a severe strain and sprain of the neck as the result of a freight car door falling upon him while he was removing a barrel from the car, one of his required duties. As a result he has been unable to use his head since the accident. Negligence is charged the company which failed to inspect the car or send it to the shops for repairs although its defects were called to the attention of officials, which is brought under the Federal Employers' Liability Act.

Barton and Kay and W. H. Dougherty are the attorneys for Fraunfelder and McCarthy.

Drummer Misses Train as He Waits at Depot: THEN MISSES SUIT CASE

At the Northwestern station there is a valuable suit case awaiting a traveling man, who had caused the police some trouble, first in getting him off on his right train, and then in getting it back to the car which he claimed had been stolen at the depot.

On Thursday an absent-minded "drummer" from Aurora, Illinois, left his suit case at the station and walked to the train while waiting at the station rooms. When he finally left to board the five o'clock train, he missed his suit case. Unwisely he failed to leave his address or name and after complaining to the patrol guard he was unable to get it back.

The next morning a Janesville man phoned that he had taken the suit case from the depot by mistake and returned it several hours later. The station agent said the lost suit case cannot be solved until the owner from Aurora can be found.

Early Frontier Scene Reproduced in Window of Janesville Tea Company.

What is one of the cleverest creations in window decoration embodying wonderful attention to detail, has been executed in the window of the new Bluff street store of the tea company by the manager, H. V. Robbins.

It is a reproduction of the first log cabin built in Rock County which was built in 1836 near the Big Rock at Monterey. It contains a log cabin, a stable and a typical early homestead winter scene. A rail fence made of hand split oak rails which have every appearance of being weatherbeaten, surround the yard, with a wind break of pines on the north. The stump marked yard is snow covered, as is the house and stable, fodder stack, wagon and well. Icicles are seen hanging from the roof and in a brush heap is seen a rabbit peering out. A turkey roosting on the fence, a snow owl on the stable and a goat is peering from the stable door. A man is observed hauling a sled load of cord wood to the wood pile where a saw buck and implements are ready for his use.

It is difficult to enumerate all the details of the scene as a person can view the display for an hour and still find some little thing that an ordinary viewer would not grasp at first. Robbins designed and created the whole thing and worked it out by hand with the assistance of L. Skavland. It is a product that does great credit to both these gentlemen. The new store of the tea company is located on North Bluff street in the new London Hotel annex. Adv.

HYZER IS PLEASED AT INTEREST SHOWN

Commercial Club's Congratulatory Note to New Northwestern Officer is Sincerely Appreciated.

In response to the note of congratulatory sent to E. M. Hyzer, newly elected vice president of the Northwestern railroad, by the members of the Janesville Commercial Club, the following letter of appreciation has been received:

Janesville Commercial Club, Janesville, Wisconsin.

Gentlemen:—I beg to say with the most entire frankness that your kind expression of interest in my success has more deeply gratified me than any similar message which I have received. The true cause of course, because the message comes from my fellow townsmen to whom I have always been attached and whose kindness to me has been unlimited.

Accept, my thanks for your message and accept also my sincere regards.

Very truly yours, E. M. HYZER.

SANTA CLAUS MAIL UNUSUALLY HEAVY

Several Hundred Letters Received for Patron Saint—Last of Those to be Printed Appear Today.

Santa Claus' mail sack was unusually heavy this year. Several hundred more of his friends wrote this year than in former years and as a consequence he will have a busy time filling all the orders given him. Unfortunately many practical jokers thought if a harmless joke to write fake letters and sign the names of their friends to them, hoping to annoy them. Some of these joke letters were published through error and it is to be regretted. However the several hundred remaining letters not published will be sent to Santa direct and no more will be published in the Gazette.

SISTERS OF MERCY SALE WAS WELL ATTENDED

The sale held by the Sisters of Mercy at their parlors during the past week was quite generally patronized and the articles disposed of with but few exceptions. The sale of articles which were sold by numbers was closed on Monday afternoon. The persons holding the lucky numbers being: Mrs. M. Vickerman, Milton Junction, $5.00; Mrs. J. S. Clarke, Deerpark, $2.00; Mrs. Katherine Riley, Leyden, $1.00; Mrs. W. Collins, crocheted collar and cuffs; Mrs. Chas. Brandt, water color painting.

The sisters return sincere thanks to all kind donors and patrons who have helped so generously in the sale of 1913 to make it a success.

Case Adjudged: The case of the city of Janesville against Mrs. Koran, scheduled for trial in municipal court this morning, was adjudged until March 20, 1914.

Cling to Primitive Customs. The tendency of the human mind to revert to primitive customs is every day made manifest in the games of children, for the Swiss youngsters still play at making fire by rubbing sticks, and the bow and arrow are common toys among the budding men of all civilized nations, few of whom have any such fund of Indian stories and traditions to fire their youthful imaginations, as have those of our own land.

Protection for Canary. Canaries kept in cages are apt to get a minute red insect in the feathers, especially under the wings; when such is the case, the bird should have a little insect powder sprinkled under the wing, and the cage should be scalded out, and dried thoroughly in the sun, or before the fire. A small bag of sulphur should be hung up inside the top of the cage.

OPPORTUNITY GIVEN TO WIN FREE SEAT

Can You Name Seven of the Great Architectural Wonders of the World.

If you saw an excellent illustration of seven of the most famous structures in the world, could you identify them by name?

In order to test how keen is the memory and how well informed are this newspaper's readers we will publish in the issue in the new future a composite cut, comprising the most famous edifices in the world. Senders of the Gazette lists that are nearest correct will each receive a reserved seat ticket for December 26th to make the "Grand Tour" of the world via Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival at the Myers Theater on December 25 and 26.

Each structure in the illustration will be numbered and the compilation of your list is most simple.

All you need to do is to place numbers from 1 to 7 on a sheet of paper and opposite each number write the name of the structure which corresponds with the number in the composite illustration. Then send your list to the "Famous Building Editor" before noon on December 24.

Just a few minutes of reflection, or perhaps a brief reference to your library or current periodicals, may put you in line for a free world tour with Lyman H. Howe.

In our Monday's issue we will publish a remarkable illustration including these seven of the most famous structures in the world.

It affords a wonderful opportunity to test the general knowledge of any man, woman or child. Probably you will have no difficulty in recognizing instantly all of the buildings as they have been illustrated very often and extensively. But how reliable is your memory in naming them?

Side Lights On The Circus Business

By D. W. WATT

(Copyrighted)

In my talks of shows and show people I have thus far neglected to mention one of the highest class men in this line of work that I ever knew in the show business. This man was Johnnie Smith, who was born and reared in Janesville and for many years with the wagon shows was considered the highest class band leader in the country. Not only was Johnnie Smith a musician of a high order, but a gentleman at all times as well. Every winter in organizing his band for the coming season he not only looked for good musicians but good, clean men that you would be glad to travel and associate with.

Johnnie Smith always made it a rule to get as many of his men as possible from Janesville and the surrounding country, and in the middle seventies he surrounded himself with such men as Sam, the son of August Cieske, Cash Williams, Len Williams, who still makes his home in Janesville, and later George Gray. All these men were musicians of a high order and in private life a credit to any institution that they might be connected with. The Williams brothers, Cash and Len, were both musicians, for more than forty years ago their father was connected with the famous Williams and Severus band of Whitefish and Milwaukee, and for many years this was the best known band in the western country.

While Johnnie Smith was strict with his men, always giving them to understand that they must not be late either for parade or for the afternoon or evening show, yet he protected them in every way and no musician with him was ever expected to do anything out of his line of work.

One year we were showing in Reedsburg, in this state, and the lot being low naturally and the day being a rainy one, it was impossible to get on the lot with the big heavy wagons, so everything was left in the road and all the planks, stringers and canvas had to be carried by the men onto the lot. We were late getting in and when the time came for opening the show the seats but few of them were up and no ring bank had been thrown up as was the custom in those days. But Johnnie Smith was there with his band early for the opening of the show at one o'clock, but no chance to open for an hour and a half or two hours later.

Burr Robbins chanced through the big top and seeing Smith and his band sitting there he said: "Johnnie, I want you to take your men and make the ring bank here."

Johnnie was not long in telling Mr. Robbins that he and his men were there to make music and were ready at any time, "but no ring bank for me or any of my men." Johnnie Smith always contended that it was a good man with the circus who would do everything that he was hired to do, and after that was done that he was entitled to sit down or stand up as he saw fit.

When I left the Burr Robbins show and went to the Forepaugh Johnnie Smith was still leader of the band and I think still remained there as long as Burr Robbins had a show.

After the Burr Robbins show went on the rails we were showing in East St. Louis, which is east of the long bridge from St. Louis proper and after the afternoon show Burr Robbins came to me and said, "I want you to ride over to St. Louis with me. I have something that I want to show you."

We drove around for a short time through some of the principal streets and finally brought up in front of an old red brick factory building and he pointed up to two windows in the third story and he said: "See those two windows in the corner? Well," he said, "I worked in that factory for a year for eighty-five cents a day years ago and little did I think then that I would be here today with a crowd as big as this one. Don't you think that I have made a few strides since working in that factory for eighty-five cents a day?"

I said, "Mr. Robbins you certainly have. But I want to tell you something. When I was fourteen years of age I rode a pony for more than two months one fall chasing cattle for a cattle buyer at twenty-five cents a day. Now, of course I am not going to mention this to anyone else, neither do I want you to, but if I ever get as much money or as large a show as you have today, won't my story beat yours?"

But I have never been lucky enough to get the money or the show, so I have never told the story and you will please keep this part of it to yourself, but who knows but what I will yet have a chance to own the herd that will lay the golden egg."

Do you know that we have not had a circus in Janesville for two years? In fact it will be three years this coming summer since Janesville has had a circus. Along in the eighties and nineties the license for a circus in Janesville was optional with the council, possibly the clerk, and the ordinance read that the rate shall not be less than $25 or more than $50. This ordinance held good until nineteen hundred and five, when it was again changed to read "not less than $50 nor more than $75." This was the license for the big shows up until April the first, nineteen hundred and twelve, when it was changed to $150 and no alternative.

Perhaps the average citizen will tell you that the license is cheap enough, that the big heavy wagons of the big circuses of today tear up the streets, and that it costs extra money for extra police, etc., but the extra police would cost but little money and I'll venture to say that in the last twenty years Janesville has not paid out $50 in all that time to repair streets that the big wagons of the circuses of today have torn up. While we have some nice brick pavements and it goes without saying that if we keep the people off of them they would last longer, yet would it not be better to have a crowd at least once a year that will contribute a little toward wearing them out, than to be so careful of them that they will never need to be repaired.

Now I am not going to say that the license is too high or that it is too much but the fact still remains that it will be three years this coming summer since we have had a circus and there must be a reason.

In every way it costs more money to bring a circus to town than to our city than it ever did. Their transportation is higher; their hay, corn, straw and oats cost them more money and yet the admission price of the great shows remains the same.

Janesville is noted as over the country as being a good afternoon stand, but a very bad one at night. No boss canvasser with any large show would dare to make a move that he was not absolutely certain of without talking to the manager of the show, but in Janesville the minute the afternoon show is over he goes to town without orders from anybody and takes out at least one hundred of the seats and then at the night show has room to spare. Furthermore no big show has come to Janesville and got expenses out of the city of Janesville alone. If they have ever made any money it has been from people from the surrounding country. The big houses of the afternoon are more than 75 per cent of people from the country, and the small crowds that they get in the evening are probably 75 per cent city people. And it is not possible for the big shows to come here and make any money, even were it a not be a good proposition to do so, it is a lot and house as cheap as we could possibly afford to?

A year ago last summer in an interview with Al and Charlie Ringling at Rockford I asked them how it happened that they passed up Janesville. If they had struck us off the list, they said, "O, my no! It just happened so." But so far it has been happening so ever since. And if we have a remedy would it not be a good idea to use it?

Cy de Vry of Chicago, who is probably as high class an animal man as there is in this country and who has charge of all the animals in the Zoo at Lincoln Park, a few days ago gave a talk to the members of the Anti-Cruelty Society in which he said that an animal is too human to be taken into the home.

Mr. de Vry held up a picture of a baboon in bed with pneumonia. Mrs. de Vry had insisted on taking the animal into their home, he said. They put the baboon in bed and sent for a doctor. Both he and his wife learned to like the baboon.

As they had no children their attachment grew in the care of the animal during his illness. When the baboon was well they liked him for his petness. When the baboon grew sick again and died they grieved for the animal.

The keeper said never again would he take an animal into his home for this reason.

He spoke of Nellie and Prince, two dead lions, lying side by side on a bank overlooking the lake. The child, alry of Prince, who had grieved the death for the lioness mate was "human" he said. Many times he had seen Prince waiting on Nellie to finish a boatload before lying in a corner for a siesta.

Tuberculosis among monkeys in the park had diminished 75 per cent, he said, since, on advice of Dr. W. A. Evans, he had used the fresh air remedy.

There seems to be a popular move all over Europe for large theatres on the basis of cheap prices. Rosina Filippi, the well known actress, is determined to give London a repertory theatre. She proposes that only the best plays by the greatest authors, both living and dead, shall be produced in it, and that a universal price of four pence (eight cents) shall be charged for every seat in the house. The scheme according to Miss Filippi, has met with great success in Italy, should it answer equally well in London it would be given a chance in the larger towns of England also. Bernard Shaw and Sir John Galsworthy are said to be interested in the matter and have promised their support should the scheme prove to be practicable.

Miss Filippi says that the theatre now in existence in Milan contains 2,300 seats, all cushioned, comfortable and possessing an uninterrupted view of a huge stage, and all at the price of four pence each. Plays by Alexandre Dumas, O'Connell, Macbeth, Pinero, J. M. Barrie, Strindberg, Shakespeare, Moliere and Bernard Shaw had been produced there.

To the London theatre the actress proposed to attach a school of acting in which dramatic talent might find a vent and an opportunity. The whole cost of the theatre would be met, she says, by a sum less than paid two months ago for a single cinematograph film.

The Store of the Christmas Spirit

SPECIAL attention is directed to what is, we believe, Janesville's finest assortment of Men's, Women's and Children's Xmas gifts. Attractive, Acceptable, Practical, Inexpensive. We can assure splendid selection until the last minute of Xmas shopping.

THE VALUES have been selected with great care, with the special desire to give better values to Xmas shoppers than can be obtained elsewhere. A look through our store will readily convince you of this fact. The demand for handkerchiefs as a gift advances season by season and this year it is far out-stripped by and former demand. Our stock was never so rich in quality, quantity or range in price in handkerchiefs as now. The same may be said of our display of table linens, napkins, towels, center pieces and dresser scarfs, bed spreads, home made comforters, blankets and dress goods and silk. Some exceptional values in women's and gent's and children's underwear, men's shirts, men's laundered and percale shirts, men's and ladies' outing flannel night gowns, men's Cardigan jackets, ladies' sweaters, men's, women's and children's hosiery in cotton, fleeced lined and wool. An unusual large line of women's silk hosiery, the kind that will give satisfaction to the receiver, in black and all the popular shades, prices ranging from 50c to $2.00. Our line of men's, women's and children's kid gloves, in all colors. Any gloves purchased during the Xmas shopping days, can be exchanged for any size or color desired. No recommendation of them is needed to people who have purchased those before. The assortment is the largest we have ever shown. Also a large assortment of women's, men's and children's lined and unlined gloves and mittens.

TOKIO POLICE FORCE BREAK BANDIT TRIBE; PREPARING FOR MEET

Cables From Japan Show Nation in Active Interest in World's Happenings—Expect Trade by Panama Canal.

[By Associated Press.]
Tokio, Dec. 20.—An entire native tribe devoted to brigandage has just been broken up and scattered by the Japanese police. With their elimination, something has been learned of how these robbers operated.

The tribe has been compared to the automobile bandits of France, in that they hung together for self protection and resisted the authorities with the same dogged determination. This robber clan, numbering about three thousand, had its refuge in the mountains of Hakone. It had existed since the old days of feudalism, and a long list of depredations, savage, ruthless and cruel in character, has been laid at its door. In times of peace, that is when the pursuit of the authorities was not too persistent, the bandits would live with their wives and children in tents down in the valleys. The men went out as umbrella menders, locksmiths or beggars, their real purpose being to reconnoitre the field for robbery. Their system of operation was always cautious, but they fought desperately when cornered. By well planned robberies and murders they kept whole prefectures terrorized for months at a time. At the first indication of real danger, however, the tribe disappeared in to the mountains.

Several policemen who tracked the bandits were killed and their bodies mutilated. Recently four detectives succeeded in joining the band by a ruse, and it was by that means that the leaders were arrested and the gang scattered.

Work for Convention.
Tokio, the meeting place of the great international Sunday school convention in 1916, is preparing in a far-sighted way for the great gathering. Already preliminary arrangements are being made so that every detail may be worked out to ensure the success of the congress. Japanese business men and financiers have come forward with the promise of funds, and active workers like Count Okuma, Baron Shibusawa, Mayor Sakaina and Dr. Soyeda are energetically helping in getting the convention machinery under way.

Thousands Expected.
A meeting of Japanese and Americans was held recently at the home of Count Okuma, who is president of the Japan Sunday School Association, and it was proposed, among other things, to erect a great hall for the meeting of the convention. But the question of accommodating several thousand foreign delegates is the most difficult to solve. From 1,500 to 2,000 delegates are expected from the United States, and owing to the scarcity of hotels in Tokyo the problem of lodging the visitors is perplexing. It is estimated that the existing foreign hotels would take care of about a thousand, but as the convention meets in June many of these accommodations will have been taken by tourists. The suggestion, therefore, has been made that residents of Tokyo possessing foreign style houses should help out the general committee by placing one or two rooms at its disposal for the use of delegates.

Importance of Canal.
The first official utterance from Japan concerning the effect of the opening of the Panama canal has been made by M. Yūkawa, chief of the Bureau of Ship Supervision, before the Japanese Ship Owners' Association, and it indicated anew the importance of the canal's opening upon the world's commerce.

Cotton From South.
Mr. Yūkawa confirmed the belief held here that cotton from the southern states and machinery from New England and other eastern states will eventually prefer the Panama canal as the route to the Far East. Many people, however, believe that as a general wide proposition preference will be given to the Suez route because of the numerous ports of call. This route, Mr. Yūkawa thought, had the great advantage of permitting easy supply of fuel and frequent taking on and delivery of freight. As against this, however, it should be pointed out in favor of the Panama route that coastwise trade profits chiefly the local shippers, and also that the American government plans to establish a government supply station for ships that pass through the canal, where fuel may be bought at cost.

New Ship Line.
The interest of the Ship Owners' Association in the subject lies in the fact that it is considering the construction of new ships to reach out for the markets on the eastern coast of North and South America, as soon as the Panama canal is opened.

OAK PARK MAN EXHIBITS PHOTOGRAPHS COLLECTED FROM PICTURES OF CHRIST

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rome, Dec. 20.—John Lenox of Oak Park, Illinois, today gave a public exhibition of his art collection of photographic reproductions of Christ in art. The American explained today that he is spending the winter in Italy in the hopes of completing his collection which, as shown today, includes more than 3,000 photographs which it has taken him twenty-five years to acquire from all parts of the world.

The collection begins with photographs of the first widely portrayed faces of Christ as they were found cut in the walls of the catacombs, and continue down through the development of sacred art until the present time. Confident that he has secured photographs of all the pictures of Christ by the ancient and renaissance artists, Lenox is now devoting his time exclusively to modern painting. At present he is photographing the face as it appears in some recent frescoes at Florence.

His work is also being greatly aided by the modern artists themselves who send him the photographs of their work. Some of the latest thus to be received by him came from Gohardt, the famous German artist.

AUSTRIAN ORDER MORTAR THROWING SHELL TEN MILES

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Vienna, Dec. 20.—The Austrian naval administration today ordered for the new coast defense fortifications a number of 18-inch mortars which will throw high power shells weighing nearly a ton ten miles. It is claimed that one shell, striking fairly, would demolish a dreadnaught.

EMIGRATION DEPLETING ENGLAND'S POPULATION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, Eng., Dec. 20.—Emigration is depleting the population of the United Kingdom at the rate of 30,000 a month, according to government statistics published today and covering the first ten months of the current year. The figures show the marked preference of Irishmen for the United States. Out of 41,338, the total number of emigrants from Ireland, 30,789, went to the states, whereas of the total English emigration of 232,216, only 16 per cent made America their destination.

GOVERNMENT DERIVES LARGE PROFITS FROM CONTROL OF TOBACCO

French Aerial Squadron Will Attempt To Cross Sahara Desert—King Alfonso a Heavy Smoker.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Paris, Dec. 20.—The government's tobacco monopoly brought a net income to the state last year of $105,000,000, or the largest return since the foundation of the monopoly one hundred and two years ago. This vast profit was made out of a capital of $30,000,000, or about one-third the capitalization of the lately dissolved American Tobacco company.

Visitors to France are inclined to criticize the quality of tobacco supplied them, principally because they are unable to find their favorite brands such as are on sale at home. But as Frenchmen have no knowledge of tobacco in any form, except such as is supplied them by the government, they are content with the quality of tobacco, although they may grumble at the prices. Much of the tobacco smoked in France is grown in the country itself. The government keeps a sharp eye on all matters of the leaf, and the whole of the crop must be sold to the state at a fair appraisal.

Lease Few Stores.

Twenty great factories work up the whole of the tobacco manufactured in France, and the right to retail is jealously guarded by the state. Permits to open tobacco shops are usually granted to widows of officers of the army and navy, or of other employees of the government. The widows usually lease their permits to other persons in consideration of fixed annual payments. The price of a cigar of a given quality is the same all over France, and the same if one cigar or a thousand are purchased. The hotels and restaurants put their cigars at the same prices as they are sold to the general public, but they add from 50 to 100 per cent as their own profit. There are 47,250 authorized tobacco planters in France, who grow about forty million pounds of tobacco on 50,000 acres. The monopoly, besides having all the tobacco grown in France, purchases 55 million pounds of foreign grown tobacco, most of it being American leaf.

Follow Road Lines.
A French aerial squadron will shortly attempt to fly across the Sahara Desert, and the National Aerial League has published the following itinerary:

"The airman will start from Oran and follow the railway lines as far as Algiers; afterwards they will cross the line of oases as far as Aoulat. Between Aoulat and Timbuctoo the line of flight will lie across a desert waste completely lacking in landmarks for the squadron's guidance. General Bailoud believes the flight to be an exceedingly dangerous one.

Twenty an Hour.
King Alfonso of Spain, during his recent visit to Paris, amazed the French officials who attended him during the hunt at Rambouillet by the number of cigarettes he smoked.

He appeared to use a fresh box of twenty every hour, and yet he did not give the least indication of the effects of excessive smoking. Alfonso is known to be the greatest cigarette smoker among all crowned heads. His mother almost always has a cigarette between her lips, except when asleep, and she lays down the principle that smoking is a great aid to thought. Among other royal women smokers are the Dowager Empress of Russia, and the reigning Russian empress.

English Education.
According to information received here from England the king of Spain has decided, in due time, to send his son and heir to Eton to receive the groundwork of his education. That this news will be denied goes without saying, but the English source is confident of its correctness.

The king was doubtless influenced as much by the healthy life the boys lead at Eton and the encouragement of sport there, as he was by the schooling his son will receive. His decision will, nevertheless, meet with a lot of opposition in Spain, where the grandees already think there is too much English influence at court.

Crossing Self Fatal.
Because he was pious enough to stop to cross himself before shooting his victim, a Russian peasant who murdered an English mine manager, has been brought to justice. The story has been made public by an American mining engineer who has just returned from a six months' tour of the mining regions of western Siberia.

The murderer had resented a rebuke from the mine manager for whom he was working, and had sworn vengeance. That evening a shepherd saw the peasant mount the veranda of the mine manager's quarters, where the owner could be seen sitting with his back to the window. The miner had a pistol in his right hand and as he raised it to fire he crossed himself with his left. The peasant was too far away to intervene or even to recognize the assailant, but he did notice that the murderer, in crossing himself, did not seem able to double his arm at the elbow.

After shooting the victim through the back the murderer fled. The shepherd told his story to the authorities and they at once recalled that the peasant who had had trouble with the mine manager was the possessor of a stiff arm, the result of an accident. They arrested the suspect and he confessed the murder after the officers told him his act had been witnessed.

Dancing Held a Sin.

The following, from a country correspondent, is an illustration of the old Dutch farmer's objection to dances of any kind: "Twice already have we been told that there is going to be a dance at the place of 'Oom Dol.' This is nothing less than an insult to our worthy old elder. I would advise the person who has spread this rumor rather to publish something good about our ward instead of creating sin."—From South Africa.

TERRIBLE ITCHING OF SKIN TROUBLE

Small Red and Yellow Spots on Leg. Covered with Dry Scale. Had to Walk Floor Nights. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment Cured.

R. F. D. No. 3, Clarkfield, Minn.—"My trouble was of long standing. It started with some small red and yellow spots about the size of a pin head on my leg and every morning there was a dry scale on top covering the affected part and when those scales were falling off the itching was more than I could stand as times. The first year I did not mind it so much as it was only itching very badly at times, but the second year it advanced all around my leg and the itching was terrible. I had to be very careful to have my clothing around the affected part very loose. At night time I often happened to scratch the sore in my sleep. Then I had to stand up, get out of bed and walk the floor. "Then I read the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I wrote for a sample and got it. To my surprise I was feeling relief after the second application. So I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a fifty-cent box of Cuticura Ointment and when I had used them I was nearly over the itching. So I got another box and that healed it all up so it looked smooth and fine, but I kept on with the Cuticura Soap for six weeks and the cure was complete." (Signed) S. O. Gordon, Nov. 20, 1912.

Cuticura Soap 25c. and Cuticura Ointment 50c. are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston." Men who shave and shampoo with Cuticura Soap will find it best for skin and scalp.

Useful Fruit.
The kernel of the fruit Canarium commune is eaten both raw and roasted in the Moluccas. An oil is expressed from it which is used both for table purposes and for lamps. The tree grows about 50 feet high and is said to have also a bark which yields a heavy oil having the same properties as balsam copaiba, for which it is said to be a substitute. In China the kernels from the Canarium commune are pickled like olives.

NEED SANER METHODS IN CHRISTMAS GIVING

PERSONS WHO THEMSELVES CARRY GIFTS TO NEEDY REALIZE CHRISTIAN IDEAL.

SPIRIT IS MERCENARY

"Paid Sob Squad" Which Distributes Matter of Fact Donations of Rich Undermines American Principles.

(By Ellis B. Usher.)

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 20.—Christmas is at hand and with weather that "tempers the wind to the shorn lamb" and makes shopping an easy matter, the people seem to fill the streets and crowd the shops. At this season of the year, too, charity makes calls upon the warm hearted and the prosperous, and this winter, even if it continues mild, is going to be one of unusual unemployment. I was startled one day this week in a meeting that was planning a campaign to raise money for one of the big charitable organizations of this city, to hear a report that over 20,000 men are idle here, this minute, and that the rest are working short time. I came in from West Allis the other day, at 4 p. m. on a car that was filled with working men. I asked what it meant and was told "short time." There is going to be need of care and help, and there is no more important subject, today, for the rich man, whether he has retired or is in active business, than the dispensation of charity. I don't like that word when it means dealing out bounty heedlessly, to be dispensed by hired workers. Nothing is doing more, in my humble opinion, to widen the gap between the rich and the poor in this country than what should be democratic, than the wholly undemocratic scheme of employing paid "sob squads" to do your christian duties for you.

Fake Charity Ideals. There is no direction in which the money of the rich is going more to undermine truly American ideas and institutions than this one. The strange part of it, too, is that the money of such old "tight wads" as Russell Sage is being used to bully the rich into contributing to their own social humiliation, not to say degradation. Perhaps this may be thought extreme but I am not a mere by-stander. I know something from contact with the charities system. There are many fine people and unselfish people working in the field of philanthropy, but they need the hard practical sense and direction of the business men who give the money to prevent its being spent foolishly, and even harmfully. Mr. Business man take your market basket on your arm next week, as you used to do, and carry a turkey to your old and faithful friend with a big family, who can't afford to buy one, and if you do not find him spoiled by the "system," I mean the mechanical, cold blooded, paid system, your soul, you will do a heap more good than if you gave your check for $50, and spent the day on the golf ground.

Madison Mna Victim of Dr. Flint Chicago Quack Gets Money, Escapes to Canada After Exposure Cured by Dr. Goddard Milwaukee Specialist

The following letter in the files of Dr. Goddard's letters tells its own story. Read it thoroughly and when you desire honest and skillful treatment consult him on his monthly visit to Janesville.

Dear Doctor— Since returning from Milwaukee I have been feeling fine and am glad that I am rid of my rupture. In 1904 I began taking treatments of the Drs. Reinhardt in Milwaukee and was treated by Dr. Flint of Chicago and took in all from both of them about twelve treatments (injections of melted paraffin). I seemed to be cured but in less than 3 weeks my rupture returned. Two years ago I came to you in Madison, after trying your treatment you decided that only an operation would cure me and on Oct. 20th I came to Milwaukee and was operated upon. I am glad that I did so and you did not charge me a cent for my operation just as you promised me when I first came to you. I feel good in every way and I am satisfied with the way you have treated me and shall be glad to recommend you to my friends as honest and square in your dealings. I was deceived and cheated out of my money by both the Drs. Reinhardt and Dr. Flint and am glad that Dr. Flint has been driven out of Chicago as an impostor and a fake.

Thanking you for your kindness and interest in my behalf I beg to remain, Yours truly,

(Name sent on request.)

614 E. Wash. Ave.

Madison, Wis.

The Doctor has lately written a little book that is intensely interesting, entitled, "Modern Methods of Treating Chronic Diseases Without Surgical Operation," which he will gladly send to anyone absolutely free of charge on request.

Anyone suffering from any chronic condition, especially if it has failed to respond to the ordinary treatment, should certainly avail themselves of the opportunity to consult Dr. Goddard on his next visit to Janesville on Tuesday, Dec. 30th, at the Myers Hotel, or write to him at his permanent address, 121 Wisconsin St., Milwaukee, Wis. Send for his little book anyway. It will greatly interest you. -Advertisement-

God looks to you, not to your money. You don't need to drool and be sloppy. Just be a real man, and measure up at your intrinsic value.

A Question for Morris. As the lieutenant governor who presided over the senate at the last session of the legislature, and signed every extravagant appropriation bill, I thought "Tom" Morris ought to be qualified to answer my question of last week as to the cost of a constitutional convention which is his recent campaign slogan for the United States senate. I may be in error but I think he will find a tax burdened people very alert for his reply. The Madison Democrat has tried to anticipate him by showing that the recent constitutional convention in Ohio cost over $500,000, but I submit that such figures are inadequate. The principal cost of a constitutional convention will entail after it adjourns, in new machinery of government, and work for lawyers and courts of justice. When Governor La Follette criticized his predecessors for spending $30,000,000 in ten years to run the state, even his expansive genius could not have forecast state expenses to $200,000,000 in a single year, and almost within a decade of his utterance. He "started something" and if "Tom" Morris or McGovern, or Hastings, or any member of the last legislature who voted against those appropriations, Republican, Democrat or Socialist, is of any stripe of either, thinks he will be able to divert the people from his responsibility, I miss my guess if he doesn't have a surprise.

That Boring Commission. We have "beat 'em all to it" here in Milwaukee. We have the "commission form of state government" in its most exquisite form in practical demonstration just now. The Wisconsin State Boring Commission has expanded the Chicago light weight, Packey McFarland for a year, because he soldiered in a recent fight here, with Jack Britton. I suppose that if he had stuck as hard as he could that would have been the end of it. However, it is plain to see that we don't want our manly sports too much denatured even before the august state commission. It would be a good plan to have the commission signed by Governor McGovern and "Tom" Morris. We don't want any brass knuckles in the next contest.

Liquor Traffic Thrives. You know, of course, that Wisconsin has an anti-cigarette law, and you read the claims of the Anti-Saloon League as to the tremendous growth of "dry" territory in the country. However, in Wisconsin we are told how the anti-saloon crusade is making headway. You know also, that neither you nor your school boys have any trouble in buying cigarettes in Wisconsin, and that the Anti-Saloon League is right on building additions to their breweries, and putting their surplus into bonds. But there is an unerring set of statistics, just out, that puts the claims of the cigarette and liquor reformers away "to the bad."

They never tell you how many United States tobacco and liquor licenses are issued in these "dry" spots, although these facts are open to the public, and very "dry" and "piggy" or drug peddlers, that sell cigarettes, fool with their Uncle Sam. They take out government licenses, almost without exception. The United States commissioner of internal revenue has just issued his annual report for the fiscal year, and the figures of the internal revenue department certainly point that way.

A Mammoth Locomotive. In line with the Erie Railroad's progressive methods it is having a new locomotive built at the Baldwin Locomotive Works which will have the greatest tractive power of any engine ever built. Because of its unique construction this new engine is very portable and it will be watched by all of the railroads in the country. The total weight of the mammoth engine with its tender is 820,000 pounds, and the unique feature is that it will utilize the large weight of its tender to furnish adhesion for the third set of drivers. It has been, generally, the practice to carry the dead weight of the tender without deriving any power from it. When it is considered that a loaded tender weighs more than the locomotive itself, it can be seen that considerable power is required to haul the tender and that a great advantage should result from putting drivers under it. It is a six cylinder type with 24 cylinders, and its tractive power is rated at 160,000 pounds. In accord with the management's policy of honoring long and faithful service, the engine is to be named "E. J. Shay," for one of the retired engineers of the Erie. This engine is another indication of the Erie's plans for handling an increasing business.

Housekeeper's "Eggs-Citement." The eggs-citement that the Housekeeper's eggs started about prices is already taking the turn that I warned you readers to be prepared for. Recent dispatches say eggs are really cheaper than they were a year ago, and that the United States district attorneys, much as the eggs-citement, the job, report that they can find no such thing as a cold storage trust. Perhaps the packers just wanted the farmers loosened up. The farmers have become wily about holding back eggs. If they sell now, the cold storage supply will bring better prices later. But if it was merely another organized hullabaloo to demonstrate that eggs are no higher than they ought to be, the cold storage supply, why are we sending eggs to Canada, which the papers report? The farmers can figure it out perhaps, but we who pay 6 cents per egg get no relief.

Short Notes. A slip on the typewriter made my last week's letter give "Tom" Morris ten years to many. I don't want to make his constitutional wisdom look any worse than it is. "Tom" was born in 1861, and is, therefore 52, and young for his years. He is five years older than Governor McGovern. Income taxes this year will be $4,091,900. That is more than it cost to run the state in 1900. The total receipts of the state then, were $4,148,213. This year's railway taxes are also more than the entire expense of running the state in 1900. There are but two items of our present year's $20,000,000 income. The one agricultural crop in which Wisconsin stands first, according to the census, is peas, and the recent canners' convention criticized the State Agricultural College for neglecting peas.

Beatrice Sparerib's Column. Dear Miss Sparerib—How can I keep my husband from lying to me about where he spends his evenings? ANXIOUS. Don't ask him any questions about it.

Dear Miss Sparerib—After I wash my hair I can't do a thing with it. Please advise me. PHYLLIS. Hang it out on the clothes line until it dries.

Dear Miss Sparerib—My affinity is baldheaded. How can I make him more beautiful. LOVELOREY. Paint a water color landscape on his bald spot.

Dear Miss Sparerib—Do you think I ought to marry a ribbon clerk who is getting $7 a week? Can two persons live on that salary? DORIS. Not if they keep an automobile.

Dear Miss Sparerib—Knowing you are well versed in history I would like to ask you who Cain's wife was? READER.

Adam's daughter-in-law.

Dear Miss Sparerib—I have a large wart on the end of my nose. What shall I do with it? CYNTHIA. Use it for a hat rack.

Dear Miss Sparerib—Can a man with whiskers tell a barefaced fool? DOUBTFUL?

Yes, my dear, any man can.

The Diary of the Bonehead. When wife and I were out on a farm for three days last summer I invited friend Farmer to visit us in the city during the winter.

Dear Miss Sparerib—I received a telegram from him asking me to meet him at the depot. When I got there with my machine, I found, Mr. Farmer, his wife and seven children, also a sister of his wife and a gentleman who he introduced as his business partner.

We rented three bedrooms next door to our house to accommodate the overflow and our maid quit that day. Since then we have had seven maids. The party went home yesterday, called by the death of an aged aunt. This aunt died just in time as another week would have seen a mortgage.

The cost of living for three three weeks in the neighborhood of $365. Moral: Don't invite them unless you want them to come.

A Great Man. A great man is the man who fixes his own automobile. If you don't seem to realize it at first, glance at him and you will realize it. He is a great man he will tell you that he is before you have talked with him for three minutes. But the great man who fixes his own automobile is always fixing it. He starts in to fix it when he really isn't noting the matter with it and he always begins fixing a thing that doesn't need fixing that thing never works right until he sends his car to the factory to be overhauled. After he fixes one thing, that doesn't need fixing he is so pleased with himself that he keeps right on fixing until he has the whole internal economy of the chug, claret out of place and his car makes noise like a tin peddler's cart running away, or a switch engine hauling a train load of sheet iron garbage cans over a piece of bad track. The best way for a man to fix his own car is to leave it alone. Nine times out of ten it will regulate itself.

The Tango. The tango is a monster of so frightful mien, As to be lured, needs but to be seen; Yet seen too oft, familiar with its grace, We first endure, then pity, then embrace.

Signs of the Times. One bottle of wine caused the death of a Denver man. It fell from a window and struck him on the head.

There is money in cows—sometimes. A cow out in Oklahoma swallowed $280 in currency. With all of her other troubles, Texas will have an extra session of the legislature.

Mississippi girl is suing a railroad station agent for $10,000 for kissing her against her will. The place to kiss a girl is against her lips. Eggs are 60 cents a dozen in Cleveland. Hens can't read, and consequently do not know that the cost of living has come down. Every man in this town is sure of getting at least two Christmas presents from his wife. The two presents will be a pair of socks.

AFTON GRADED SCHOOL HAS CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

Exercises Given at School House Enjoyed by a Large Audience. Distribute Gifts From Tree.

(Special to this Gazette.)

Afton, Dec. 19.—The Christmas tree and program of the State Graded school was given at the school house last evening instead of at Brinkman's hall as was first intended. The house was packed to the doors. The following interesting program was given:

Song—Primary grades. Welcome—Alma Borkenhagen and Frances Davenport. Recitation—Zeba Woodstock. Song—Mary Clark, Christine Stoll. Recitation—Edwin Teibert. Recitation—Johnny Wanniger and Johnny Borkenhagen. Recitation—Bernice Eddy. Dialogue—Primary grades. Recitation—Annette Johnston. Song—Edna and Casper Hammel. Recitation—Albert Engelke. Song—Seventh and eighth grades. Recitation—Marta Brinkman. Song—Virginia Beckus. Recitation—Edna Hammel. Song—First grade. Play—Santa Claus, Jr.'s Substitute—Upper grades. Song—Primary grades. Santa Claus after the program, distributed the presents from the tree. Mrs. Arthur Woodstock was the guest of friends in Beloit, Thursday. Herman Hammel has returned from Red Falls, Minnesota, where he has been the past summer, and will spend the winter here. The superintendent, teachers and scholars of the Baptist Sunday school are working hard on the program which will be given in connection with the tree at the Baptist church, Wednesday evening.

ORFORDVILLE

Orfordville, Dec. 20.—School in the village closed on Friday evening for a two weeks' vacation. Mr. Van Guilder has a poultry car on the local siding and is receiving five poultry for the Chicago market. The state meat inspector was in the village a day or two ago, looking over the local meat market. Principal Harmon and wife left for Whitewater on Friday evening, where they will spend the vacation with Mr. Harmon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marsh. If you are looking for help of any kind, read the Want Ads.

FOOTBALL RULES

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

ABOUT this time of the year the national football commission looks carefully over the remnants of the less durable players who have indulged in our great autumn pastime to excess and tries to think of a new set of rules aimed directly at the prosperity of the corners, with whom the country abounds.

While most of the eminent shin virtuosos who participated in the various gridiron pleasures, this fall emerged comparatively intact, some few of them have not been entirely collected as yet and there is great need of reducing the ballistic force of the 189-pound half-back, while at the same time care must be taken to avoid squeezing the thrills and gate receipts out of the game.

This can be accomplished if the commission will only borrow the experiences of the other exact sciences and exercise a wide commonsense in its deliberations. One of the most serious features of the present game is the number of sprained ankles and knees sustained. While this cannot be entirely eliminated, it can be reduced to 50 per cent by using only one-legged players.

Collisions between men who carry the ball and members of the opposing line are often attended with frightful results. The semaphore system would obviate this. By the adoption of an ordinary train rule forbidding a player to enter a block until the player ahead has left it the mortality would be cut down 75 per cent. Interference is also the cause of many accidents, interference according to all Wall Street authorities is entirely unwarranted and unwise, and a skillful use of the common or temporary injunction will eliminate it.

Many football players are sadly marred by the reckless practice of walking over the faces of the opposition with cleated shoes. Turning to the rules of golf, Volume 3, Section 76, we discover the remedy. All divots cut from the features of the opposition should be immediately replaced by the player or his caddy. Many players are permanently impaired by attempting to tackle such men as Brickley of Harvard, without the latter's consent. A very common railroad rule will prevent this. Players should not attempt to board Brickley until he comes to a full stop. We should not hastily despair of accomplishing the task of derating football, but should go at the matter calmly and in the light of every day experience with other problems.

FRANK MOHNS APPOINTED WESTERN UNION MANAGER AT THE LOCAL OFFICE

Frank Mohns, a Janesville young man, who has been manager of the Western Union office at South Milwaukee for three or four months past, has been appointed manager of the local office to succeed R. D. Cannon who will take charge of the company's station at Danville, Ill. Mr. Cannon will leave Janesville on Tuesday of next week. He succeeds Harry Fitch, former manager here, who will take a better position in Chicago. Cannon has been at the local office for some eighteen months.

Mr. Mohns was employed as operator in this city before taking the South Milwaukee post. The Western Union office will be located on the Corn Exchange after the first of the year.

Doors That Don't Stick

The Doors of the Viking Sectional Bookcase run on patented rollers and guides, a great improvement in bookcase construction. You will never be bothered by sticking, binding or rattling doors if you have the Viking Bookcase. When you open the door it disappears smoothly and noiselessly, and when you close it, it "drops on air" — for it is air-cushioned.

The Viking Sectional Bookcase

has many other points you will find in no other construction. Double tops make it dust-proof and damp-proof. It is built to hand down from one generation to another. Comes in any of the classic styles—in plain or quarter-sawn oak, in golden oak or mission finish, mahogany or imitation mahogany, and with plain or leaded glass. See the Viking on our floor.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"WE WON'T TALK ABOUT IT!"

IN A CERTAIN household which I know, the head of the house has a way of settling all discussions in which his wife takes a view different from his own by saying calmly, "We won't talk about it."

"We won't talk about it— we won't compare our views; we won't try to understand each other's ideas; we won't try to compromise our diverse desires; my will must be law and you can't even try to make me understand how you feel," that, in effect, is what he is saying.

In another household the man takes a superficially different, but essentially similar fact. He meets all his wife's attempts to make him see her point of view in the following manner: His wife asks him to go out with her one evening a week; she tells him she thinks it is good for both of them to mix with people at least that much. "Very well," he says, "I'll come home and get into my dress suit every night and trail around with you until midnight, but don't expect me to get ahead at the office when that's the kind of preparation I have for my day's work."

I can't think of any type of man I should be less willing to marry than the one these two represent. Of all the qualities which are needed to make married life happy, it seems to me the quality which these men lack stands near the head of the list, and that quality is reasonableness.

Reasonableness is not a showy quality; it does not look particularly well in print; it does not seem like a quality the Prince of Charming would need to have. But, believe me, you who wait for the Prince, no prince would long be charming without it, at least not after you were married to him.

The happiest married couple, if they be people of any individuality at all, must find a subject on which they have diverse view points. They have been brought up under different conditions, they have a different heritage, and it stands to reason that they will not think alike on every point.

Now, this unavoidable difference may bring unhappiness or it may not. That depends largely on whether the two parties are equipped with the quality of reasonableness. Is each one ready to give up his or her own point of view in the other's place and try to get his viewpoint? If either or both of them are incapable of doing this, or unwilling to do it, the marriage is a risky business. The bond itself may endure but the love probably will not. Love can live with selfishness, jealousy, quick temper, in short with almost any quality, better than with reasonableness.

A sense of humor and a sense of reason and justice are not at all romantic qualities, but they make a mighty good basis for a happy marriage.

FROM the sunlit heights of life the deep valleys and hollows of its necessities look darkest; but to the faithful whose part lies there, there is still light enough to show the way, and to no other eyes do the everlasting hills and blue heaven seem so brilliant.

WHEN COMPANY COMES.

There is an old saying handed down from some remote ancestor which tells us that "the ornaments of a house are the friends who frequent it." There are few housekeepers who do not enjoy very keenly the entertainment of friends, and there are fewer with the means to entertain as they like, yet true hospitality does not consist in the things with which you furnish your table; better a dinner of herbs where there is hominess, than an eight course dinner with the feeling that it is to be paid for later by hard skimping.

In this day and age we are looking for and expecting originality from our educated women; anybody may copy the rich neighbor, provided one's cred is good, but the woman who serves her friends with food and entertainment within her means is bound to be respected by all who know her. A simple meal, dainty and well served, is so much more acceptable than the elaborate one which shows it is too great a strain.

It is a positive joy to the dinner-guest to be entertained at an old-fashioned dinner table, where each has a share in the serving. Trying to outdo our neighbor is too common a performance. The popular hostess is she who starts something original. The pity is that there are so many who could entertain simply, and should return hospitality, who hesitate for fear of the expense. Let the entertainment be within the means, make it simple and then go calmly along, envying nobody, setting a wholesome example which will be followed with gratitude by the rest of the sensible members of society, who are fortunate enough to have such a friend.

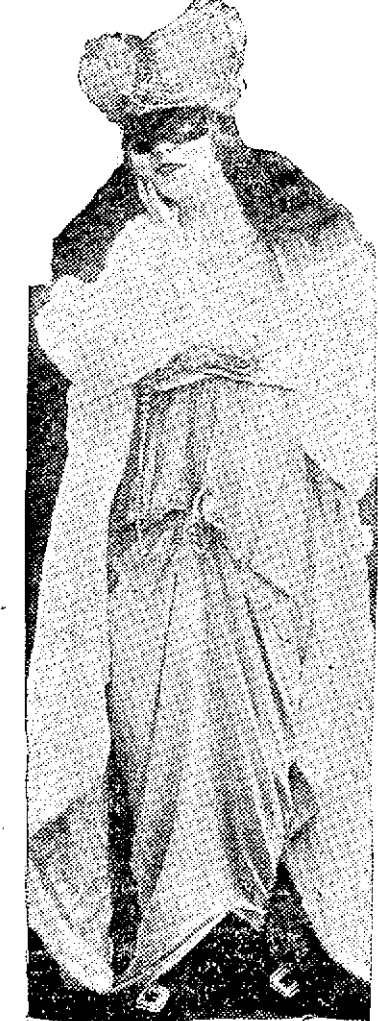

Great people have always been in favor of simple food, and it is usually Mrs. Newly Rich who attempts to outdo others and serve up impossible messes whose only recommendation is the employment they give our long-suffering physicians.

MASKED SOCIETY WOMEN ENTERTAIN

Mlle. de Priel.

When Anthony J. Drexel gave a series of dinner parties for the Russian grand duke in the French capital, it led to the revival of an old Parisian custom whereby bachelors helped their female friends to act as hosts at entertainments at which women were also invited. Following Mr. Drexel's example, the Count de Cambaceres, one of the wealthiest members of the French nobility, gave an evening party attended by the younger members of old families and by society women, who were masked throughout the affair and left without revealing their identity. Mlle. de Priel, one of the guests, is shown here in a Paquin gown, as she appeared at the dinner.

MENUS FOR HOLIDAY PARTIES.

What are the young folks who are home from school to do during the Christmas week? There are many of them from our high schools and home from college and boarding school besides the stay-at-homes and the members employed in shops and stores all clamoring for fun.

care not whether it is a dancing party or one of games or watching the old calendar out and the New Year in, there must be some kind of refreshments and these, too, of the kind which will satisfy good healthy appetites. If a large party, sandwiches may be made, fish or meat salad, served on one hot dish, such as creamed or escalloped oysters with red cabbage salad.

If the gathering is not too large and part of the real entertaining is in the eating, have a chafin dish supper. Use at least two chafin dishes, one at each end of the table. The table should be decorated according to the particular festivity of the occasion. A large bowl of artificial holly, another at each end of the table, with candelabra and red candles burning, are effective. Red shades may be used if desired. Then place up the selected always in keeping with the color note of color. Here are suggestive menus:

Menu No. 1.
Creamed Oyster on Toast or

Chicken a la King.
Red Cabbage Salad.
Baking Powder Biscuit.
Jelly.
Celery. Olives.
Ice Cream. Candles. Small Cakes.
Fruit Punch.

Menu No. 2.
Hot Cheese Dreams.
Tuna Fish Salad.
Olives. Sautéed Nuts.
Ice Cream. Coffee. Cake.

The success of either of the above menus is having two members of the party who understand the chafin dish thoroughly. Everything should be on the table ready for the hot dish, and with two making it, the lamp and everything hot, to say nothing of the fun caused by the cooking being done where everyone can see it and all wanting to have a hand in it.

These are made by stirring bread and cutting off the crusts. Butter two medium slices and put them together with slices of American cheese well sprinkled with paprika. Light the lamp and put butter, a tablespoonful into the blazer. When hot fry each sandwich until a nice brown, turn and brown the other. These are delicious and may be toasted in the oven.

Tuna Fish Salad.
Material—One can tuna fish; celery, three sticks; grated onion, two tablespoons; mayonnaise, one-third cup; whipped cream, one-third cup; salt and paprika.
Directions—Have selected this fish as it is not nearly so rich as salmon. Drain it well in the colander and drain again. Add the celery cut up, the grated onion, a little salt and paprika. Mix well together with the mayonnaise and whipped cream. Serve on lettuce and garnish with green and red sweet peppers.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: The houses around here are so close together that there is practically no sun here whatever.

(1) Please give me the names of flowers, shrubs and vines which grow fairly well with very little sun. How can I get them—by seeds, bulbs or cuttings?

(2) I have a challis dress in love with a boy one year my which is slight senior. A girl who lives in my home is draped on the town is very jealous of me and is side. Would this always telling falsehoods to this be suitable to a gentleman. He seems to think a wear to a dancing party? I much of him. What would you advise me to do?

(3) There is another gentleman friend of mine I have always thought a great deal of. He seems to have so many other girl friends and does not care for me. Please advise me how to attract his attention.

ANXIOUS.
(1) If the boy likes you he won't pay any attention to what a jealous girl says. So don't do anything.
(2) If you are in love with one boy, why do you want another on the string? Also, I shouldn't think you would want any particular attention from a fellow who is divided among so many girls. Better center your efforts on one who thinks you are the whole thing. If you don't try so hard to attract the popular boy's attention he may think you more worth noticing.

FOR "READER"—I cannot answer your questions. I can only advise you to consult a good attorney and have him present your case before the court.

Worry Has a Value.
There must be a way of taking worry rightly, so that it shall do us good and not harm. Worry, rightly taken, should train to quietness, humility, patience, gentleness, sympathy. It ought not to eventuate (though it naturally does) in making others suffer because we are uncomfortable, in making us a source of painful worry to others because we are worried ourselves.—A. H. K. Boyd.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) What is a suitable gift for a young lady whom you know only fairly well? I had thought of a book; if proper what kind of a book?

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

To make tripe ragout, cut the tripe in small pieces and saute in butter. Make a good tomato sauce and stew the tripe in it until tender. Put on a platter and serve with a border of boiled rice.

To keep yeast cake remove the tin foil from the cake in a cup of salt and set in a cool place. It will keep fresh a week.

To clean unwashable jobs shake out the dust, cover with cornstarch and put away for several days. They will be as good as new after the cornstarch is shaken out.

To mend gloves buttonhole each side of the rip with thread to match the glove, then turn and whip together on the wrong side.

THE TABLE.
Cream of Pea Soup—Open a can of peas, turn off the liquor and pour over them enough cold water to cover them. At the end of half an hour drain the peas, put them into a saucepan with a pint of water and boil until they are reduced to a pulp. Rub through a colander and add a teaspoonful of flour rubbed into one of butter, and stir the pea purée into this. Cook for a minute, season to taste, and turn into a heated tureen. Have ready a handful of dice of fried bread to throw upon the surface of the soup before it is sent to the table.

Olive Sauce—Make a brown sauce as follows: Put four tablespoonsful of butter into a saucepan; when hot add four and a half tablespoonsful of flour and stir until very brown; add two cupsful of brown stock and salt and pepper to taste. Remove the sauce from five olives an oil for five minutes in water to which one tablespoonful of vinegar has been added. Drain and mince and add to the sauce.

Whole Wheat Bread—One table-spoonful of lard, and the same of sugar. One cup each of boiling water and of hot (not boiling) milk. One yeast-cake dissolved in half a cup of warm water. One cup of white flour and three cups of whole wheat flour, or enough to make a soft dough. Knead for ten minutes; cover and let it rise until it is twice its original bulk. Make into small leaves; let it rise for an hour, or until very puffy, and bake.

Spoiled Sweetbreads With Mushrooms—Blanch the sweetbreads and cut them in half, lengthwise. Grease a small gridiron, lay the split sweetbreads on this, and broil over a clear fire, turning frequently and watching carefully lest they scorch. When done, lay on rounds of crustless toast, rub thoroughly with butter, salt and pepper to taste, and cover with minced mushrooms fried in butter.

Hashed Potatoes, Creamed and Browned—Cut a dozen cold boiled potatoes into very small dice. Thick-en a cupful of hot milk with a table-spoonful of flour, rubbed into one of butter. Season to taste and stir the potato dice into this sauce. Stir for just a minute; turn into a greased baking-dish and brown in a good oven.
Jam Omelet—Beat the yolks of five eggs light with a heaping table-spoonful of powdered sugar. Into this stir a table-spoonful of cornstarch dissolved in three table-spoonful of milk, then the stiffened whites of the eggs. Cook in a frying pan until set; spread with strawberry jam, fold and serve as dessert.

Vanilla Cookies—Cream one cupful of butter with two of sugar, and stir in a cupful of sour cream, two beaten eggs and three cupfuls of flour sifted twice with a table-spoonful of soda. Flavor with vanilla extract. If your dough is not stiff enough to handle, add more sifted flour until it is of the right consistency. Roll into a sheet about a quarter of an inch thick, cut into rounds and bake.

Frosting for a Plain Loaf Cake—One cupful of cream, one pound of confectioner's sugar XXX, one cupful of seeded raisins, chopped; one cupful of almonds, chopped; one table-spoonful of lemon juice. Mix quite stiff.

Baked Halibut Steak—Lay the steak in salted water for fifteen minutes; wipe and put into a halibut-pan. Rub the steak with butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and pour over and around it a cupful of milk.

Bake, basting every ten minutes until the milk is absorbed. Serve fried potatoes with it.

WITHIN THE LAW

BAYARD VEILLER

CHAPTER V.

Keeping Within the Law.

MARY'S heart leaped at the possibility back of those three words, "within the law." She might do anything, seek any revenge, work any evil, enjoy any mastery as long as she should keep within the law. There could be no punishment then. That was the lesson taught by the captain in high finance. He was at pains always in his stuporous cobwebs to keep within the law. To that end he employed lawyers of mighty cunning and learning to guide his steps aright in such tortuous paths.

There, then, was the secret. Why should she not use the like means? Why, indeed? She had brains enough to devise, surely. Beyond that she needed only to keep her course most carefully within those limits of wrongdoing permitted by the statutes. The sole requirement would be a lawyer equally unscrupulous and astute.

She took Joe Garson into her confidence. He was vastly astonished at the outset and not quite pleased. To his view this plan offered merely a fashion of setting difficulties in the way of achievement.

Presently, however, the sincerity and persistence of the girl won him over. The task of convincing him would have been easier had he himself ever known the torment of serving a term in prison. Thus far, however, the forger had always escaped the penalty for his crimes, though often close to conviction. But Mary's arguments were of a compelling sort as she set them forth in detail, and Garson agreed that the experiment should be made.

An agreement was made by which Joe Garson and certain of his more trusted intimates in the underworld were to put themselves under the orders of Mary concerning the sphere of their activities. Furthermore, they bound themselves not to engage in any devious business without her consent.

Aggie, too, was one of the company thus constituted, but she figured little in the preliminary discussions, since neither Mary nor the forger had much respect for the intellectual capabilities of the adventuress, though they appreciated to the full her remarkable powers of influencing men to her will.

It was not difficult to find a lawyer suited to the necessities of the undertaking. Mary selected Sigismund Harris, an attorney, just in the prime of his mental vigors, who possessed a knowledge of the law only to be equalled by his disrespect for it.

Forthwith the scheme was set in operation. As a first step Mary Turner, Aggie's Winsome Innocence, became a young lady of independent fortune, who had living with her a cousin, Miss Agnes Lynch. The flat was abandoned. In its stead was an apartment in the Nineties on Riverside drive, in which the ladies lived alone with two maids to serve them.

Garson had rooms in the neighborhood, but Jim Lynch, who persistently refused the conditions of such an alliance, betook himself afar, to continue his reckless gathering of other folk's money in such wise as to make him amenable to the law the very first time he should be caught at it.

A few tentative ventures resulted in profits so large that the company grew mightily enthusiastic over the novel manner of working. In each instance Harris was consulted and made his confidential statement as to the legality of the thing proposed. After a few perfectly legal breach of promise suits, due to Aggie's winsome innocence of demeanor, had been settled advantageously out of court Mary devised a scheme of greater elaborateness, with the legal acumen of the lawyer to endorse it in the matter of safety. It was planned as the swindling of a swindler, which, in fact, had now become the secret principle in Mary's morality.

A gentleman possessed of some means, none too scrupulous himself, but with high financial aspirations, advertised for a partner to invest capital in a business sure to bring large returns. This advertisement caught the eye of Mary Turner, and she answered it. An introductory correspondence encouraged her to hope for the victory in a game of cunning against cunning. She consulted with Harris and especially sought from him detailed information as to partnership law. His statements gave her such confidence that presently she entered into a partnership with the advertiser. By the terms of their agreement each deposited $30,000 to the partnership account.

This sum of $60,000 was ostensibly to be devoted to the purchase of a tract of land, which should afterward be divided into lots and resold to the public at enormous profit. As a matter of fact, the advertiser planned to make a spurious purchase of the tract in question by means of forged deeds granted by an accomplice, thus, making through fraud a neat profit of $30,000.

No sooner was the $60,000 on deposit in the bank than Mary Turner drew out the whole amount, as she had a perfect right to do legally. When the advertiser learned of this he was, naturally enough, full to overflowing with wrath. But after an interview with Harris he swallowed his wrath as best he might. He found he could not go into court with clean hands, which is a prime stipulation of the law, though often honored in the breach. So he let himself be maltreated in raging silence.

The event established Mary as the arbiter in her own coterie. She next decided that a certain General Hastings would make an excellent sacrifice on the altar of justice—and to her own financial profit. The old man was a notorious rascal, of most unsavory reputation as a destroyer of innocence. It was probable that he would easily fall a victim to the ingenious charism of Aggie. As for that precocious damsel, she would run no least risk of destruction by the satire.

General Hastings met Aggie in the most casual way. He was captivated by her freshness and beauty, her demureness, her ignorance of all things vicious. Straightway he set snares. He showered every gallant attention on the naive, bread and butter miss and succeeded gratifyingly soon in winning her heart—to all appearance. But he gained nothing more, for the coy creature abruptly developed most effective powers of resistance to every blandishment that went beyond strictest propriety. His ardor cooled suddenly when Harris served a summons in a suit for $10,000 damages for breach of promise.

Even while this affair was still in the course of execution Mary found herself engaged in a direction that offered at least the hope of attaining her great desire—revenge against Edward Gilder. This opportunity came in the person of his son, Dick. After much contriving, she got an introduction to that young man. Forthwith she showed herself so deliciously womanly, so intelligent, so daintily feminine, so singularly beautiful that the young man was entranced almost at once. The fact thrilled Mary to the depths of her heart, for in this son of the man whom she hated she saw the instrument of vengeance for which she had so longed. Yet this one thing was so vital to her that she said nothing of her purposes, not even to Aggie, though that observant person may have possessed suspicions more or less near the truth.

It was some such suspicion that lay behind her speech as, in negligence, she sat smoking a cigarette, while watching Mary, who was adjusting her hat before the mirror of her dressing table one pleasant spring morning.

"Dollin' up a whole lot, ain't you?" Aggie remarked affably, with that laxity of language which characterized her natural moods.

"I have a very important engagement with Dick Gilder," Mary replied tranquilly.

"Nice boy, ain't he?" Aggie ventured inquisitively.

"Oh, I suppose so," came the half-fervent answer from Mary as she tilted the picture hat to an angle a trifle more jaunty.

"I don't get you, Mary. You never used to look at the men. The way you acted when you first run round with me, I thought you sure was a snuff-tragette. And then you met this young Gilder—and—good night, nurse!"

"Well?"

"His old man sends you up for a stretch for something you didn't do, and you take up with his son like?"

"And yet you don't understand!" There was scorn for such gross stupidity in the musical voice.

Aggie choked a little from the cigarette smoke as she gave a gasp when suspicion of the truth suddenly dawned on her slow intelligence.

"Hully gee!" Her voice came in a treble shriek of apprehension. "I'm wise!"

"But you must understand this," Mary went on, with an authoritative note in her voice. "Whatever may be between young Gilder and me is to be strictly my own affair. It has absolutely nothing to do with the rest of you or with our schemes for money making. And what is more, Agnes, I want to know what you meant by talking in the public street yesterday with a common pickpocket."

Aggie's childlike face changed swiftly to a sly eagerness to silence.

"You know perfectly well, Mary Turner," she cried indignantly, "that I only said a few words in passing to my brother Jim. And he ain't no common pickpocket. Hully gee! He's the best dip in the business."

"But you must not be seen speaking with him," Mary directed, with a certain air of command now become habitual to her among the members of her clique. "My cousin, Miss Agnes Lynch, must be very careful as to her associates."

"He just stopped me to say it's been the best year he ever had," she explained, with ostentatious vanity.

"How can that be when the dead line now is John street?"

"The dead line!" Aggie scoffed. "Why, Jim takes lunch every day in ters! Jim sure does love excitement." Mary lifted her dark eyebrows in half-amused inquiry.

"It's no use, Agnes," she declared, though without entire sincerity; "I can't quite keep up with your thieves' argot—your slang, you know. Just what did this brother of your do?"

"Why, he copped the copper's kale," Aggie translated, glibly.

Mary threw out her hands in a gesture of dismay.

Thereupon the adventuress instantly assumed a most ladylike and winning air which ill assorted with the cigarette that she held between her lips.

"He gently removed a leather wallet," she said sedately, "containing a large sum of money from the coat pocket of a member of the detective force." The elegance of utterance was infinitely done. But in the next instant the ordinary vulgarity of enunciation was in full play again. "Oh, gee!" she cried gaily. "He says Inspector Burke's got a gold watch that weighs a ton, an' all set with diamonds, which was give to 'im by admirin' friends! We didn't contribute."

"Given to him," Mary corrected, with a tolerant smile.

"What difference does it make?" Aggie demanded scornfully. "He's got it, ain't he? Just as soon as I get time I'm goin' after that watch—believe me!"

"No, you are not. You are under my orders now. And as long as you are working with us you will break no laws."

"But I can't see"—Aggie began to argue with the petulance of a spoiled child.

"When you were working alone did you have a home like this?"

"No."

"Or such clothes? Most of all, did you have safety from the police?"

"No; but, just the same, I can't see!"

"Agnes, the richest men in this country have made their fortunes, not because of the law, but in spite of the law. They made up their minds what they wanted to do and then they engaged lawyers clever enough to show them how they could do it and still keep within the law. Any one with brains can get rich in this country if he will engage the right lawyer. Well, I have the brains, and Harris is showing me the law—the wonderful twisted law that was made for the rich. Since we keep inside the law we are safe."

"And now I must be off to a most important engagement with Mr. Dick Gilder."

Dinner Stories

In a small country church, not long since, a little child was brought forward for baptism. The young minister, taking the little one in his arms, spoke as follows:

"Beloved hearers, no one can foretell the future of this little child. He may grow up to be a great astronomer like Sir Isaac Newton, or a great labor leader like John Burns; and it is possible he might become president."

Turning to the mother, he inquired, "What is the name of the child?"

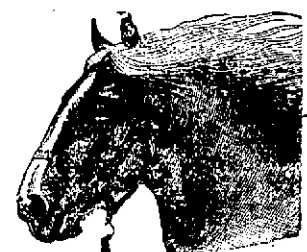

"Mary Ann," was the reply.

A certain doctor, who is, on his own frank admission, "the ugliest man in four counties," has a keen sense of humor, which enables him to enjoy many real and unconscious reflections upon his facial deficiencies.

Once, after he had arrived too late to succeed a poor woman who had been killed in a factory, the local newspaper published an ambiguous account of the case, which the doctor, with grim appreciation, preserved.

"WHITE HOUSE" GREETING From the New Proprietors.

We are not going to begin by telling you we are selling goods for half-price—delivering them and giving credit—in fact doing anything if you will only come and take the goods away. We do tell you, and will prove to your satisfaction, that we can sell goods at a smaller profit and make as much money as any competitor in Janesville, and we will not back down on meeting the prices you "think" you get from catalogue houses.

First. We do not sell on credit.
Second. We buy from responsible houses only—and for cash.

Third. We are not extravagant—making big displays of fancy goods.

If you grasp the full meaning of this you will see the advantage of coming to the White House. When you buy goods that look and wear well—at a right price—you will admit it is better for you than buying in a store with fancy fixtures and decorations, as they must add a percentage to the cost of the goods you buy. Good merchandise and small profits is our aim. Our store may be comparatively plain, but values are distinctive. We aim to keep a good line of dry goods, underwear, hosiery, house-dresses, sweaters, quilts, blankets, a nice line of dress goods, ready to wear garments, boots, shoes, slippers, rubbers and over-shoes. In fact we will try to keep the very best lines of serviceable goods, at as low prices as possible. No trouble to show goods. Give us a call. White House, 19 and 21 S. River St. Fifty feet from the high rent district.
